Budget Cut Ten Per Cent

Committee in Slash For Federal Agencies in Sum Of $665,900,025

WASHINGTON, April 27—(P)—The 1952 budget of 27 federal agencies was slashed 10 per cent—$665,900,025—today by the House Appropriations committee.

The committee recommended that the House give the agencies $6,171,777,440 for the fiscal year starting next July. President Truman had asked $6,837,677,465; the same agencies got $11,932,720,332 for the present year.

The funds are for the so-called "independent offices" whose finances are lumped in a single bill. Almost all of them were cut, including the atomic energy commission and the veterans' administration.

The committee's action is subject to alteration by the House when it considers the bill next week.

The cut was the largest on any of four regular departmental bills sent to the House floor this year.

In addition to the actual money slash, the committee claimed further savings of $80,900,000 through cancellation of authority previously given some of the agencies to enter into contracts which would have required future appropriations.

The contract authority cancelled included $10,500,000 for loan to develop prefabricated housing and $13,100,000 for public works advance planning. Another $57,300,000 saving was claimed because the committee limited to 50,000 the number of public housing units to be started next year with government financing.

The cut of $5,760,000,000 from current year appropriations as compared to fiscal 1951 was due largely to omission from the 1952 budget of requests for large sums for strategic and critical materials and a tapering off in some veterans' benefit programs.

The two largest beneficiaries of the bill are the atomic energy commission and the veterans' administration.

Direct Simplicity

For the AEC, the committee allotted $1,140,017,750, a cut of $69,982,250 mostly in construction programs. This committee directed the AEC to use "care and simplicity" in designing its new buildings and to cut out the fancy trimmings.

For the Veterans' Administration, the allotment was $3,971,944,145, a budget cut of $483,378,855. Heavy reductions were in funds for readjustment benefits and pensions, due mainly to a tapering off in the education program for vets.

For other major agencies in the bill, here's what the committee recommended and the amount cut from the budget:

Tennessee Valley Authority: $232,139,600, a cut of $12,428,400; in addition, the TVA gets an estimated $108,202,000 from operating revenues.

Executive Office of the President: $19,361,215, a cut of $12,810,000, mostly in emergency funds.

Civil Service Commission: $321,005,000, a cut of $25,400,350; this allotment includes $300,000,000 for civil service retirement and disability payments.

Displaced Persons Commission: $6,195,000, a cut of $2,065,000.

Federal Communications Commission: $6,575,000, a $275,000 cut.

Federal Reserve Board: $424,500, a cut of $123,500.

Federal Trade Commission: $4,136,400, a cut of $255,000.

General Account Office: $31,494,000, a $498,000 cut.

General Services Administration: $156,745,680, a cut of $8,849,320.

Housing and Home Finance Agency: $23,536,200, a cut of $14,193,800.

Interstate Commerce Commission: $10,759,470, a cut of $782,530.

National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics: $66,462,980, a cut of $13,537,020.

Securities and Exchange Commission: $5,699,000, a $225,000 cut.

Maritime Activities of the Commerce Department: $157,558,900, a cut of $18,451,100; most of this money is for merchant ship construction and modernization.

Girl Suspect in Prayer Service Theft

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 27—(P)—An 18-year-old Kansas City girl has been charged in a fugitive warrant with participating in the theft of $1,050 from an Emporia man during a prayer service.

The girl, Miss Dollie Gotto, pleaded innocent at her arraignment and was held in default of bail. Officials at Lyon County, Kas., are expected to extradite her.

The victim, Mrs. Bill Durham, 77, said two gypsies told her they were religious workers and robbed her of her savings and two $500 bonds at Emporia Tuesday. Three other women questioned here were released for lack of evidence.

A Kansas City man, John H. Marks, 23, is being held in Emporia.

Oppose Phone Rates Increase

JEFFERSON CITY, April 27—(P)—The Missouri Municipal League has filed a petition with the Public Service Commission opposing a $13,000,000 rate increase for Southwestern Bell Telephone company.

The league alleges that the company has failed to comply with an order of the commission when phone rates were raised in July, 1950. The company was directed then to build facilities necessary to improve service.

The league says service is poorer now than at the time of the order. It urges that the company be required to provide adequate service before a hearing for higher rates is started.

The league represents approximately 200 Missouri cities with a population exceeding 90 per cent of the state's urban population.

Funeral Held Today For Miss Burrowes

Requiem High Mass By Rev. Brunswick At Sacred Heart

Sacred Heart church was filled to capacity this morning for the funeral services of Miss Rosemary Burrowes, news editor of the Sedalia Democrat, who died at her home, 700 West Fourth, Wednesday night. The Rev. A. J. Brunswick, pastor of the church, officiated at the 10 o'clock requiem high mass.

After mass he paid high tribute to Miss Burrowes relative to her church affiliation, her civic activities, helpfulness to others and friendships acquired through her active years of endeavor.

Pallbearers were Malachi O'Brien, William B. Hert, Jr., Cline Cain, Julian H. Bagby, John J. McGrath and George H. Scruton.

Burial was in Calvary cemetery. The rosary was recited Thursday evening at the McLaughlin chapel.

The offices of the Democrat-Capital were closed for the services and co-workers of all departments of both the Democrat and Capital attended, being seated in a section reserved for them.

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club of which she was a charter member attended in a body.

Messages of Condolence

Many messages of condolence were received by members of the family of Miss Burrowes.

From Frank Gorris, bureau manager of the Associated Press at Kansas City came the following message: "Word of passing of Rosemary comes as a great shock to us in the AP, who always appreciated her kindness and cooperation. The newspaper profession has lost a great newspaperwoman and I extend my sincere sympathy."

C. G. Wellington, managing editor of the Kansas City Star wired: "Please express to the family of Miss Rosemary Burrowes the deepest sympathy of all of us on the Star."

E. Lansing Ray, publisher of the St. Louis Globe Democrat, wired Lon Burrowes, managing editor of the Globe the following message from New York: "Sincerely sorry to hear of your great loss. I know how close you have always been to your family. However God's will be done. We all have to take our loss of dear ones on the chin—I know what it means."

Among others who wired the family were messages from Mr. and Mrs. Larry Brill, Kansas City; John, Odessa and Michael Patison, Ft. Worth, Texas; Miss Mary McEniry, St. Louis; John J. Dugan, Kansas City; Mrs. Sol Gross, real estate editor of the St. Louis Globe and Mr. Gross, Hume Duval, St. Louis Globe Jefferson City bureau and Mrs. Duvall.

Outstate Friends Here

Many outstate friends of the Burrowes family came to Sedalia to attend the funeral services, including Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cooney, Webster Groves; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Neal and Miss Ann Clifford, Boonville; Mr. and Mrs. Clem Reuter, Clifton City; Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Knox, Boonville; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schultz, Higginsville; Mrs. George Ridge, of Kansas City; Mrs. Alna Huff, St. Louis; State Senator Michael Kinney, St. Louis; Hume Duval, St. Louis Globe Democrat correspondent at Jefferson City; Paul Treadway, of the Globe Democrat, St. Louis; Miss Mildred Plathold, Editor of the Woman's Page of the Globe Democrat; and her mother, Mrs. Fred F. Plathold, St. Louis.

John T. Stinson, St. Louis, and E. G. Bylander, Little Rock, Arkansas, both men former secretaries of the Missouri State Fair.

Monday Deadline on April Auto Tags

Owners of automobiles whose licenses expire in April have until Monday evening to get their 1951 tags for their license plates. Ben Robinson, deputy motor vehicle commissioner in Sedalia, said that more than 1,000 car owners in this vicinity have failed to get their license tags.

Failure to obtain the tag before May 1 will result in a $2.00 penalty being assessed by the state before the license can be renewed for a year.

MacArthur is Back to His Home Town

Thousands Cheer General as He Reaches Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, April 27—(P)—The city Douglas MacArthur calls home welcomed the five-star general today for the first time in 29 years. His arrival climaxed a four-hour motor trip from Chicago.

The general's motorcade, greeted by wailing sirens and hooting factory whistles and cheered by thousands lining the streets, pulled up at the Plankinton House in downtown Milwaukee at 11:55 a. m. (CST). The general has for years listed the hotel as his official home address.

The military hero retired immediately to a newly decorated and refurbished suite for lunch and a short rest. His wife and 13-year-old son, Arthur, accompanied him to the eighth floor of the building, reserved for the family's use during its short stay here.

Later this afternoon, the general will receive an honorary degree of doctor of laws from Marquette university in ceremonies at the school's football stadium. Then will come a 16-mile parade climaxed by a civic welcome at MacArthur square, named in his honor, in the heart of the downtown district.

The long motorcade which left Chicago at 7:35 a. m. was nearly 30 minutes behind schedule at Racine, 23 miles south of here, but at the general's direction it speeded up to nearly 60 miles an hour for the run to the Milwaukee county line.

Welcome Sign

Pausing at the county line, the general pointed smilingly to a huge banner reading "Welcome Home—City of Milwaukee and Milwaukee County Welcomes You."

The entire 100-mile trip was a triumphal march through lanes of cheering spectators and children waving flags.

But there was disappointment at various points along the Lake Michigan shore line, where stops had been planned. MacArthur took cognizance of it as he told the tightly-massed crowds at Racine: "I am sorry, I cannot speak, we are behind schedule."

There was time both at Kenosha and Racine only to permit Mrs. MacArthur to receive bouquets and plaques.

CHICAGO, April 27—(P)— Gen. MacArthur, hailed by cheering millions in a gigantic civic demonstration, last night urged a "positive and realistic" Korean policy "to stop through strength this slaughter of America's sons."

The ousted commander of the fighting forces in the Pacific, in a ringing speech, climaxed a triumphal march to Chicago, defended his policy in Korea. He challenged the administration's policies.

"Our losses there (Korea) in ratio to the men committed have already reached staggering proportions," MacArthur declared. "These losses are progressively mounting by thousands each month."

The general said "the advent of the war with Red China" has created "a policy vacuum heretofore unknown to war." He declared "that although my public life is now closed," x x x he would continue "to advocate a positive and realistic policy for Korea designed to bring the war to an early and honorable end."

The general was interrupted by an outburst of "no! no!" after he had declared "my public life is now closed" when he resumed, smiling, he told the crowd: "it is closed."

MacArthur said that it was "difficult to ask men to fight and die unless we give them a realistic mission and the means to accomplish it." And then he asked, "what is our policy in Korea?"

Some say, he said, our policy is pacification and unification of Korea. Others, he added, say that our objective is achieved upon clearing South Korea of invading forces.

"Still others," MacArthur said, "ignore both explanations and frankly say that our objective now is to continue to engage the enemy forces in a prolonged and indecisive campaign of attrition, notwithstanding the constantly increasing cost in American blood."

MacArthur decried interference with the American Far East political policy "by nations with only token forces in the field."

Had Secret House Of Detention

ST. LOUIS, April 27—(P)—A secret detention house for potential enemies was operated in downtown St. Louis during World War II.

The disclosure was made by Chester A. Ramsey, who is retiring as head of the St. Louis office of the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization service. Ramsey was reminiscing about his career.

The site was a two-story brick building at 10th and Pine, since torn down to make way for a parking lot. The establishment was opened overnight on orders of President Roosevelt, Ramsey said.

Several hundred persons, most of them German aliens, passed through the place. Only others who knew the place existed, Ramsey said, were government officials and immediate members of the families of those rounded up.

Suspected saboteurs rounded up in the month following the attack on Pearl Harbor were the first to be held in the building.

Flood Threat At Canton is More Serious

Evacuation For More Families During Afternoon

CANTON, Mo., April 27—(P)—The flood threat in northeast Missouri became more serious today as the Mississippi river continued to rise slowly.

Crest predictions were revised upward. All major levees were expected to hold, however, unless the river goes higher than expected next week or remains at a high stage for an extended period.

At Canton, the river rose to 17.7 feet today and was expected to reach 18 feet tomorrow—a stage that had not been expected until Sunday.

Bill McReynolds, Canton disaster chairman for the Red Cross, said eight or ten more families that had hoped to remain in their homes would be evacuated this afternoon. An estimate of the number of families forced out of their homes here during the past two weeks was revised upward from 25 to 75.

Bomber And An F-51 in A Collision

Eight Men Had Parachuted From B-36 in Oklahoma

CARNEY, Okla., April 27—(P)—An air force soldier said today a B-36 bomber and an F-51 collided in North Lincoln county here today.

The flier, who would not disclose his name, said "everything was not all right."

He would not give any number of casualties but at least one escaped in the crash.

The Tryon telephone operator asked the Associated Press to release the one telephone circuit in order to call for assistance.

The crash scene is about fifty air line miles northeast of Oklahoma City.

The highway patrol said five men were seen to parachute from one plane a few moments before the crash. The men came to earth about 15 miles east of Guthrie, patrol headquarters said.

In Tulsa, air national guard headquarters reported that eight men had parachuted from the B-36. They added that a B-36 normally carries a crew of 12.

These headquarters disclosed that a B-36 and several F-51s were engaged in maneuvers in the Carney area.

Ready to Retaliate if Hostile Airpower Enters the Fight

By Dewitt MacKenzie AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The mammoth do-or-die Red Chinese offensive in Korea has drawn from President Truman a statement which might help clear the air by putting it up to the Communists to choose between seeking peace or spreading the conflict.

The chief executive didn't amplify this statement, which was made at a news conference. However, it has been widely interpreted as a warning that if hostile airpower enters the conflict in great strength, then United Nations war planes will retaliate by bombing what General MacArthur long ago characterized as the Manchurian "sanctuary" of the enemy.

This interpretation is strengthened by the disclosure that the United States recently proposed to United Nations Allies. That enemy bases in Manchuria be bombed if the Reds should employ heavy air power in Korea.

It is stated that no objections were raised by the thirteen nations consulted by Washington.

It is an ironic circumstance that General MacArthur's advocacy of

Little Change in Sales Records

ST. LOUIS, April 27—(P)—Department store sales in the Eighth Federal Reserve district last week were the same as for the comparable week a year ago.

Cool weather and a difference in timing of post-Easter sales were limiting factors last week, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported.

Sales in the St. Louis area were unchanged from a year ago. Sales were down three per cent in Louisville, Ky., two per cent in Memphis, Tenn., and one per cent at Little Rock, Ark. Increases averaging 16 per cent were reported from seven smaller district shopping centers.

Higher Taxes To Cut Profits

Mounting Costs As Drag on Them For Industries

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, April 27—(P)—Higher taxes drag at the coattails of industrial profits this year. But record sales volume still pulls earnings one-fourth higher than a year ago on the average.

Company after company, reporting profits for the first three months, show that business is very good.

The Korean war's effect is very plain in a sampling of 88 companies among the first to report. Tax hikes and mounting costs of labor and materials are slowing down the profits uphill rush. The 88 had total earnings of $924,601,205, compared with $734,597,414 in the 1950 first quarter, making the average gain 25.8 per cent.

Industry profits, however, were much better on a year-to-basis last year. The Federal Trade Commission report today that the nation's manufacturers made 43 per cent more profits in 1950 than in 1949 after taxes. Before taxes the gain was 61 per cent.

Before Korea the maximum corporate income tax was 38 per cent. Now it is 47 per cent, plus a 77 per cent levy on earnings in excess of 85 per cent of the company's average profits in the three best years of the 1946-49 period.

Each of the 88 companies sampled here is among the leaders in its field, but profits range in size from an oil company reporting $118 million in the first quarter to an airline running in the red. The list shows 23 companies with earnings lower than in the first three months of 1950, and 65 with larger profits.

Showings of individual companies vary widely within industries. Some firms report the biggest profits of any first quarter in their history. Others drop behind the trend of their industry as a whole.

Greatest profit gain reported by industries in the sampling is the 128 per cent jump in the total earnings of five non-ferrous mining companies.

Contact With The Reds Been Broken By Withdrawals

Firm Stand Urged by Taft On Formosa

Touches Off a Sharp Debate in The Senate

By Jack Bell

WASHINGTON, April 27—(P)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) urged today that Congress take a firm stand against the surrender of Formosa or the recognition of Red China lest Secretary of State Acheson try to end the Korean war by "appeasement."

Touching off another sharp debate over Far Eastern policies, Taft told his colleagues he thinks they can be "wholly justified in the suspicion that Acheson may try to end this war by appeasement of the Chinese Communists."

"I would like to see this Congress go on record as against the surrender of Formosa, the recognition of Red China or any appeasement pact," said Taft, the Republican policy leader in the Senate.

Taft strongly backed the program advocated by General Douglas MacArthur to use Chinese Nationalist forces on Formosa to help United Nations troops battling Communist aggression in Korea.

Taft said the nation has only three courses open for dealing with Communist aggression in Korea.

First, he said, is the policy of President Truman and Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chief of staff, to try to limit the fighting to Korea. He described that as a policy for a "stalemate," coupled with a "pious hope" that the Chinese Communists eventually will quit.

Second, said Taft, there is the "appeasement" policy of Acheson. He maintained that this involves the surrender of Formosa and the admission of the Chinese Communists to the United Nations.

Third, Taft said, is MacArthur's policy. He said this would confine the use of American troops to Korea, and would use the Chinese Nationalist forces now on Formosa. It also would mean, he said, the bombing of Communist bases in Manchuria.

Taft argued that the choice must be between what he called the Acheson and MacArthur policies because, he said, that of the President's cannot go on forever.

Earlier Taft had said he and other Republicans don't want to tell military leaders how to run the Korean war but do want to prevent "appeasement" of Red China.

Six Killed in A Ship Blast

Bedenham of British Navy Was Vessel Wrecked

LONDON, April 27—(P)—The admiralty announced today the royal navy munitions ship Bedenham blew up at Gibraltar this morning, killing six persons and injuring an undetermined number. Earlier reports said there were no casualties.

The admiralty said only casualties among navy personnel aboard the 1,152-ton ship were a number of injured. This was taken to mean that all the dead were civilian port workers.

A dispatch from La Linea, Spain, only a mile from Gibraltar, said 50 blast victims were rushed there and to Algeciras, three miles away. Some were in serious condition. Windows were shattered in La Linea causing slight injuries to some residents.

W. J. Edwards, civil lord of the admiralty, told the House of Commons he understood that a lighter—a small vessel used generally for unloading purposes—alongside the Bedenham, also blew up.

An admiralty spokesman declined to comment on the possibility of sabotage until an investigation of the blowing up last July 14 of nine ammunition barges loading explosives for Korea, that blast, in Portsmouth harbor, injured 19. There have been a number of minor cases of sabotage on British ships over the last 16 months but no lives have been lost.

Four-Division Police Reserve

TOKYO, April 27—(P)—Japan's 75,000-man national police reserve next week will take the form of a four-division army.

The reserves' director-general Keikichi Masuhara, told reporters his men are being given basic field training. He said each division will have four regiments of 3,000 men each.

Rain Forecast in Flood Areas

By The Associated Press

It was fair weather in most parts of the country today. Temperatures generally were around seasonal levels.

Rain fell in the northern and central plains with heavy falls in some areas.

Rain was forecast today and tonight for the flood areas of the Mississippi river valley. But no further evacuations were reported in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri—where the big river is at near record levels in some areas. However, thousands still are unable to return to their homes because of the floods.

The plains states and the south-east had the warmest weather. It was a little cool in the Great Lakes region eastward to the New England states but warming was in prospect.

Eleven Die In B-29 Crash In The Azores

Five Injured In Emergency Landing of Plane

ROSWELL, N. M., April 27—(P)—Eleven crewmen were killed and five others injured in a B-29 crash in the Azores, Walker Air Force base announced today.

A spokesman at the Roswell base said the four-engine super-turbine bomber cracked up and burned yesterday at Lages airfield in the Azores, while making an emergency landing.

Plane and crew were stationed at Walker as part of the 509th Bomb group.

Authorities here said the crash happened at 5:45 p. m. (MST).

The big bomber was on a regular training mission and was en route back to Roswell, they reported. It was scheduled to make its first stop in this country on the return flight at Westover Field, Mass.

Extension on 'Markup' Plan

OPS Order on Classifications is Still Unchanged

WASHINGTON, April 27—(P)—The government today granted a two-week extension—until April 30 to May 14—for retail and wholesale food dealers to put food prices under the new "percentage markup" system.

The office of price stabilization said there is no extension beyond tomorrow for the 560,000 retail food stores and 10,000 wholesalers to file classifications of their stores with OPS district offices.

The food price control orders were issued March 28. They affect about 60 per cent of the food on the shelves of grocers and sales amounting to $20,000,000,000 a business year.

Three regulations were issued. One affects wholesalers' prices. One covers small independent retailers and the third governs chain stores and large independents.

The retail stores were classified into four groups depending on the volume of business done yearly. By April 28 the stores must notify OPS what classification they will use in re-pricing goods. This deadline has not been changed.

Under the regulations the food dealers must figure their new prices by applying specified percentage markups to each item of food based on their latest net cost shown on invoices.

This re-pricing was to be complete next Monday. Under the extension today grocers now have until May 14 to complete their computations. OPS said the extension was given to assure uniformity in all stores in pricing. Their latest net costs before May 14 must be used in putting new ceilings into effect.

After the new prices are established, grocers must recalculate their prices each Monday based on latest costs.

Price Director Michael C. DiSalle called the orders OPS' "first big move in the food field" since the general price freeze Jan. 26. He said he expected the "general impact of the order will be to reduce food prices in most categories."

APS said the percentage markup method of price control will be replaced by a dollars and cents pricing system as soon as food prices can be stabilized. Food price controls followed the same pattern under the office of price administrator during World War II.

Truman Needs Some Public Relations Experts For Advice

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — Shrewd speaker Sam Rayburn, one of the President's best assets on Capitol Hill, was talking to friends about the sad state of Mr. Truman's prestige as a result of the MacArthur controversy and asked for ideas on how to improve the President's public relations. Rayburn felt that the President was right in ousting a military commander who refused to obey orders, but deplored some aspects of the way the matter was handled.

One friend suggested that what the President needed was some smart public-relations experts to advise him.

"If he got some advice from Earl Newsum in New York, who handles public relations for Standard Oil and Henry Ford," suggested the friend, "and from Tim McInerney, who knows all the public-relations angles in Washington, they could probably change the present trend."

"Yes," replied Rayburn, "but they wouldn't be able to get anywhere near the White House. The boys around the President would never let them in."

What the speaker referred to is the extreme jealousy of most White House advisers. They are so fearful that some outside adviser will weaken their cherished positions close to the throne, that they let few people of any stature have the President's ear—except for routine official callers.

This is one of Truman's greatest weaknesses today.

Truman's Bad Timing

Meanwhile, the President's sense of timing has proved deplorably bad. When Truman fired Louey Johnson as secretary of defense, he did so exactly three days before the Inchon landing in Korea. If he had waited until after the Inchon landing, he knew Johnson would have received part of the credit for this victory and his dismissal would have been unpopular. So Truman fired him first.

In the case of MacArthur, if the President had relieved him immediately after the tragic December defeat in Korea, public opinion would have been with Truman. Instead, he waited for the wrong moment.

Note—With a few exceptions, such as Dean Acheson, Roosevelt never fired a high official outright. He usually sent them to China or some other foreign country to make a survey, then eased them out of office afterward. Acheson was fired as undersecretary of the treasury at a press conference during which Acheson was waiting in an outer office. He did not know he was fired until the newsmen, emerging from the press conference, told him so. He had disagreed with FDR about devaluing the gold content of the dollar.

Veep and MacArthur

Every movie theater in the country is now showing General MacArthur's dramatic speech to the joint session of Congress. As the movie camera recorded MacArthur's famous attack on the administration, their lenses also recorded the impassive face of Vice-President Alben Barkley.

Barkley, sitting immediately behind MacArthur, gave no outward indication of his thoughts. However, Barkley's friends report that while MacArthur was striking at the foundation of the administration's foreign policy, the Veep was reflecting on his own personal ties with the general.

Barkley recalled that his eldest daughter, Laura, is married to Douglas MacArthur III, the general's nephew. And as he listened to the general's vitriolic attack, he thought of the many tickets he had given MacArthur's relatives so they could come and witness the attack.

He could not help but wonder also what his son-in-law, Douglas MacArthur III, thought about his uncle's "Save Asia First" idea. For young MacArthur is state department adviser to the man who is trying to save Europe first—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

Taxing Women's Faces

Chief Congressional champion of the "working girl" is Rep. John Dingell of Michigan. One of his pet themes is unfair taxes on women's toilette articles, and the other day he delivered a brisk lecture on the excise-tax problems of the fair sex during a closed-door meeting of the House Ways and Means committee.

"One of the worst tax inequities I can think of is the 20 per cent excise on ladies' handbags," challenged the Detroit Democrat. "Why should a handbag be considered a luxury when it serves the same purpose, to a woman, as a man's pocket?"

Pointing out that an excise is chiefly a "subterfuge sales tax," passed on to consumers, Dingell demanded a repeal of excise taxes on all cosmetics and no increase in current excises on cigarettes and "the working man's champagne"—beer.

"I have no tobacco interests in my district and no breweries that I know about," continued Dingell. "Also, I don't smoke and rarely touch alcohol in any form. However, when you have a 100 per cent tax on cigarettes in addition to the various state taxes, I think it's time to stop if you want to save free enterprise in this country."

Chairman Bob Doughton of North Carolina beamed brightly. For his state is the capital of tobacco. But treasury spokesmen, who want to jump the excise on popular-brand cigarettes three cents per pack, weren't enthused. Their bewilderment increased as Dingell added:

"You don't tax paint used on barns, houses and fireplugs. Then why must we have an excise on the paint and rouge our women, the most beautiful in the world, use on their faces? I'd a lot sooner see the government give tax relief to a pretty face than a cow barn."

"Let's hear from the treasury," broke in Rep. Jere Cooper of Tennessee, trying to placate the fired-up Dingell.

"No, let's hear from me," shot back the Congressman from Michigan. "I don't need any coaching from the treasury department on this question. I've been shouting for years against discriminatory excises and I intend to keep on shouting."

Sinatra vs. Crosby

During the height of the MacArthur debate, ex-Congressman Calvin Johnson of Illinois spoke before a group of Cleveland businessmen.

"I'm afraid my remarks will be a letdown to you after listening to MacArthur deliver what I consider the greatest speech of the century," apologized Johnson. "It reminds me of the time Bing Crosby was asked what he thought of the singing ability of Frank Sinatra."

"Sinatra was all the rage, especially among the young folks, and Crosby was hesitant about answering."

Finally, according to Johnson, a Sinatra admirer heckled: "Don't you know that Sinatra has a voice that comes once in a lifetime?"

"Yes," replied Crosby, "but why does it have to come in my lifetime?"

"It's all right, Mrs. Dalrymple. These men are going," I turned to Nanabarro. "Better run along."

"A grand for the film," repeated Al Nanabarro to Nick Ricardo.

Ricardo took it and Nanabarro reached into his pocket and counted out 10 $100 bills. Ricardo removed the film and handed it to Nanabarro and took the bills.

Nanabarro turned to me and I gave him back his gun. "Get this straight, Marshall. That thing at the club happened just as I planned. When I try to kill somebody, I don't miss."

"How about the Fountain Parkway miss?"

"I had no part of that."

After he and his pals had gone, I mixed two drinks and handed one to Ricardo, who looked pleasantly surprised. I pulled up a chair and sat opposite him. "Too bad I didn't have the money to bid for the pix."

"What pix?" Ricardo laughed. "Do you think I'd get anything worth printing in this kind of light, even with my lens and fast film? Nanabarro paid the highest price ever paid for a roll of blank film."

Ricardo had been at the La Jolla Club when Nanabarro had rounded up his little party and the reporter had followed to see what was cooking. He found my front door jammed and my door unknocked.

"Look here, Marshall, you were in a bad way when I waltzed in with my little camera! You owe me some cooperation. I don't want to see Tanner run Star out of the law business! Star's the best copy I ever had! What is the low-down on what's going on?"

I gave him a thoughtful look.

Probably he was no bad guy. He had just got into my hair so many times with his long nose and his trick camera that I was prejudiced against him.

I PULLED up a chair and sat down opposite him. "You get around a lot more than I do, Ricardo. What do you know about Frannie Martin, lately Nanabarro's girl?"

Ricardo leered. "That one! Listen, she might have sold Al the idea she was his girl, but she was anybody's girl any time the mood struck her. And she was as moody. It's a wonder Nanabarro didn't cool her long before he did."

"Maybe he did, and maybe he didn't. Maybe there's an angle everybody doesn't know. Frannie Martin must have had quite a list of gentlemen friends. Can you name some special ones?"

Ricardo was interested. "Maybe you got something. There were a few of a very special kind. I remember a guy named Hodgson, a tank town banker downtown. He once gave Frannie a rock as big as a headlamp, and she wore it right under Al's nose."

"I don't think Banker Hodgson is very interesting."

"Well, there was a newly-rich jerk that made his dough manufacturing coffins. I think I can't remember his name."

"Was he fat, the butter-ball type?"

Ricardo's eyes lighted. "You know him, huh?"

"If it was burial vaults instead of coffins, yes."

Ricardo snapped his fingers. "That's it, burial vaults! The Pratter Hermetically Sealed Vault Company! I remember seeing one of the guy's cards. He gave Frannie a mink coat!"

THE phone kept ringing, and I kept thinking that only a fool would get out of bed to answer a telephone. Then I opened my eyes. The sunlight came reprovingly into the room, and the clock on my stand said 9:30. I got up and answered the phone. It was Sonya.

"I want to see you," she said, "but I've nothing to wear. Clara promised to pick up some clothes at my place during her lunch hour. Can you come over here?"

I couldn't argue that Sonya would look good slinking around in the a. m. with the deep V thing on, so she gave me Clara Mayhew's address.

I had a fine time shaving. My face didn't look as bad as I thought it would, but it was plenty sore. My ribs ached, too, where Nanabarro had kicked me. As I started for the garage a window screamed upward and Mr. Shelton, the superintendent, called to me.

"Mr. Marshall," he said, "I've had complaints this morning. Mr. Lessingwell, in the apartment beneath you, wants me to evict you. Mrs. Dalrymple said she saw no less than two women of the looser sort visit you late at night. And Mr. Buscher in 2-C said you put on a regular drunken brawl. I demand an explanation."

"Well, Mr. Shelton, bless your heart, you're certainly entitled to an explanation. First, a lady magician armed with an automatic pistol picked the locks and entered my room surreptitiously where she lay in wait upon my arrival. Whether there would have been bloodshed is problematical, for we were interrupted in our tete-a-tete by a mortician and the employe of a burial vault company. Afterwards a chorus girl tricked me into opening the door and admitting three desperate gunmen. I might have been killed but for the timely arrival of a photographer with a candid camera and the intervention of Mrs. Dalrymple. After all parties had departed I went to bed and had a good night's sleep. And, oh, by the way, Mr. Shelton, the uncouth hoodlums jimmied your front door lock as you will no doubt notice. Just send the bill to me."

Be Your Own Foreign Policy Expert—

Some day the dust will settle on the Truman-MacArthur furor, but meanwhile the matters of foreign policy at issue between these two leaders remain. Putting personalities and your own emotions aside, what do you believe is the correct stand for our country to take on these questions — the answers to which may decide the fate of the world? Consider each of them thoughtfully — they are the major areas of disagreement between Truman and MacArthur—and then answer "Yes" or "No." If "Yes" answers predominate, you find yourself siding with General MacArthur. If it's "No," you tend to favor the administration's point of view.

Should we bomb Chinese bases in Manchuria in hope of shortening the war in Korea, but at the risk of starting World War III?

Should we continue to protect Formosa and veto Red China's bid for UN membership if giving in to the Reds on these issues would end the fighting in Korea?

Should we aid Chiang Kai-shek in operations against the Chinese mainland, assuming the same hopes and risks?

If our allies, including the United Nations, refuse to accept our foreign policy decisions on these matters, should we disregard them and "go it alone"?

Marge Shares Hubby's Fun; She's Not Lucky—But Smart

Marge's married friends think she is lucky because she and Jim share so many interests and have so much fun together.

If they gave the matter a little more thought, they'd see that Marge isn't lucky—she's smart. Marge has never discouraged any of Jim's new enthusiasms. Instead she has taken them on herself, not in the spirit of a competitor, but in the comradely spirit of sharing his interests.

When anything is important to Jim it becomes important to Marge. She doesn't begrudge the money he spends on a hobby or the time he devotes to it, his interests are never her enemies. And Jim never feels that his wife resents his doing the things he really likes to do.

Marge Goes Along

Furthermore, Marge usually manages to accept enthusiastically any time Jim wants her help or her companionship. She has as many responsibilities as the next woman and it is no easier for her to fall in with spur-of-the-moment plans. But she does it and without weighing Jim down with the details of all the planning and arranging it takes for her to earn even half a day's freedom.

All too often the wife who complains that her husband never wants to take her anywhere or spends all his leisure time on interests that don't include her really has herself to blame.

She has either belittled or fought against her husband's enthusiasms instead of sharing them, or she has wanted companionship on her own terms, or she has in the past made getting away from her responsibilities seem so hard that her husband thinks it isn't worth all the effort trying to take her somewhere.

The women who share their husbands' interests aren't lucky women, they're smart women who don't make these mistakes.

Q—Who was the painter who included an ordinary house fly in one of his portraits?

A—Sebastiano del Piombo in his portrait of Cardinal Bandinello Sauli, painted an ordinary house fly on the knee of the Cardinal. Why the creator of this masterpiece "mocked" his subject in this manner is unknown.

The Doctor Says—

Painful Pleurisy May Yield To the New Germ Killers

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

No one who has had an attack of acute pleurisy ever forgets it. Although it is not as painful as kidney stones or some other things, pleurisy is a most unpleasant experience and often lasts for quite a long time, too.

This disorder gets its name from the delicate membrane which surrounds the lungs called the pleura. If the pleura becomes inflamed, which may be the result of infection or for no apparent cause, there is pain felt in the chest. Also, there is usually a sharp dry cough, which the victim dreads because it makes the pain worse. Even ordinary breathing or any other motion of the chest is likely to bring on sharp pain.

An attack of pleurisy is apt to begin after exposure to excessive cold though it may come on at any time. It is sometimes only one sign of some other disease of the lungs such as pneumonia.

Even if the pain is more or less bearable it isn't smart to pretend to be big and strong and ignore the whole thing. Rest in bed as soon as possible is not only a lot more comfortable but a lot safer. And it is wise, too, to get an X-ray and other diagnostic tests before too long.

Chronic Stage

The severe pain of acute pleurisy is not likely to last long under proper rest and treatment, but unfortunately pleurisy often has a tendency to become chronic. This can go on and on with a good deal of discomfort and interference with normal life.

Furthermore, fluid sometimes gathers in the space between the pleura and the lungs. This may or may not be absorbed in time and sometimes it has to be removed with a needle.

One good thing about pleurisy is that because it is usually infectious (but not catching), it sometimes yields to the new germ killers.

Seoul Looks Like a Civic Graveyard

By Hal Boyle
NEW YORK.—If ever a city needed pity from the gods of war, it is the city of Seoul. It should be given a rest under the rotation system. It has earned one.

Battle damage has turned this capital of the Republic of Korea into another Berlin, another Warsaw. And if the tides of conflict roll back and forth across it much longer it may end up another Carthage.

It is beginning to look more like a civic graveyard than a living city. Today it is probably inhabited by more rats than people. And the rats diet on the debris-covered dunes.

Seoul has changed hands four times in the last ten months. And the Reds are knocking at its gates again in a mighty offensive. By the time you read this they may be already back in it.

The normal time schedule for the Reds to drive from the 38th parallel into Seoul is four days. They've done it twice already—last June, last January.

Why can't the United Nations army hold it? Because the outnumbered Allies must fight a war of maneuver rather than a war of fixed positions. They have to do this to survive, to keep from being engulfed by a human sea of Chinese.

If they gambled on a single stand, this great flood of armed and headless flesh would wash over them and their guns and destroy them. But by hitting, killing and pulling back, the Allies hope to break up this living enemy sea into smaller waves of troops which they themselves can mop up.

Would Reduce Power
So far these tactics have worked. For the farther the Chinese have to march the farther they are from their Manchuria supply bases. And that means there is less power in their battering waves. It is easier to kill a snake when he is stretched out than when it is coiled to strike.

There is another reason why Seoul is hard to defend. It is on the wrong side of the Han river. If the allies tried to hold it in force, they would have their backs to this river. And a sudden enveloping flank smash by the enemy might leave the United Nations forces cut off from behind.

This stern military fact is hard for civilian Koreans to understand. It is difficult for them to see why Seoul cannot be saved.

Again they must take up the long foot march south along "heart break highway." But each time there are fewer of them to go. Seoul dwindled in a few weeks last winter from a war-swollen population of 1,500,000 to about 200,000. Most of those who stayed behind were the very young or too old and weak for the Reds to grab for service as impressed soldiers or human pack horses.

Many of these children and elderly persons have died by starvation or disease. They collapse on the streets and die unheeded. Few dogs growl among the rubble. For refugees, when their rice is gone, catch and eat the dogs.

Seoul never was exactly the Paris of the Orient. It was, however, the most modern city in South Korea. But the four horsemen have ridden it into ruin. It has been devastated by bomb and bombardment, by street fighting and by great acres of fire that wiped out hundreds of small homes in a single night.

The Korean war has had many casualties, but its number one casualty is this dying city, a city dying for a world democracy that must remember it in its ashes.

India-French Trade Balance Marks Record
NEW DELHI.—For the first time in 50 years, India in 1950 had favorable balance of trade with France amounting to $2,310,000, authoritative sources here said.

French purchases in India included jute and jute goods, raw cotton, mica, manganese ore, raw oils, gums and tanned skins. India obtained from France iron and steel products, railway equipment, electrical goods, paper and cardboard, pearls and precious stones, aircraft equipment, motor cars, manufactured wool and chemicals.

Sacred Heart Holds Banquet For Athletes

Participants Get Letters For Activity In Athletic Events

The Sacred Heart high school held its annual athletic banquet last night in the high school cafeteria. Letters and stripes were awarded in softball, volleyball and basketball. Two letters were awarded cheer leaders and one to student manager. Present for the occasion were fifty students and guests.

Four in Basketball
Four letters were awarded in basketball: James Labus, Kenneth Jett, James Fall and Patrick Ryan. James Menefee, captain of the Gremlin 1950-51 basketball varsity and William Hodges both received stripes.

In volleyball the recipients of letters awards were: Betty Jo Dick, Jeanette Askren, Mary Edna Bopp, Marlene Stimpfel and Patricia Ryan. Jean Askren, volleyball captain, Mary Jo Welliver, Doris Eckhoff and Patricia White received stripes.

Softball letters were given for the first time this year. James Menefee, Donald Vickers, James Labus and James Fall received softball letters for the boys, while Mary Jo Welliver, Jean Askren, Betty Jo Dick, Doris Eckhoff, Patricia White, Jeanette Askren, Mary Morley and Rosalie Hall received softball letters for the girls.

Cheer Leaders Get Letters
The two Sacred Heart cheerleaders to receive letters were: Charlotte Wiemhot and Elizabeth Menefee. Donald Stohr received a student manager letter.

The Gremlins will lose but one first stringer in basketball this year James Menefee. Five letter men will be back next year's team.

In volleyball, Sacred Heart loses six letter girls. Three letter girls will form the nucleus of next year's volleyball team.

In softball, the boys will have most of their team back next year, losing but one regular, James Menefee.

The girls, on the other hand, will lose seven members of their team.

The brightest side of the Gremlins' athletic activities the past year, was the success of the Junior team. The Gremlin Junior high team won first place in the Lincoln Junior tournament last December, while the Sacred Heart grade school won its own tournament in March. This new material plus the added experience of the past year should contribute much to a successful athletic session next year.

Father A. J. Brunswick, basketball coach Palmer Nichols and athletic director Fr. A. Migoni, spoke briefly at the banquet. Fr. Nolan of St. Patrick's church, Fr. Balster of St. Joseph's church, Mrs. Nichols and Julius Stohr were guests for the occasion. The banquet was prepared by the Sacred Heart Mothers' club.

Meanwhile the Chinese have suffered terrible casualties, as must be the case in such a massed attack against strong positions. In some instances the Allies have been employing artillery at point-blank range.

At first glance it might seem that China, with her vast reservoir of manpower, could stand such losses easily. But the cold fact is that Peiping is gravely worried over the heavy Chinese casualties in battle and from fatal diseases. The drain has begun to be felt.

In the long run this fresh Chinese onslaught may prove a benefit in disguise. It may weaken China so that the Korean war can be confined to the peninsula, and thus prevent a major Asiatic upheaval which would precipitate World War III.

used heavy air power or armour. Such strength would have to come largely from the Soviet union.

And how goes the battle? It is too soon to make predictions. The terrific Chinese assault has driven a great bulge in the U. N. line across Korea. The most powerful assault has been in the center, where the defenders were pushed back some 27 miles in five days.

However, this tough situation needn't be regarded with dismay at this early stage of the battle. The U. N. withdrawals were expected in the face of this onslaught by 300,000 Chinese troops. Indeed, the retreats as a whole have represented the defensive tactics of "rolling with the punch" to soften the enemy blow. The Allied troops are reported to be fighting a "magnificent delaying action."

attack against strong positions. In some instances the Allies have been employing artillery at point-blank range.

At first glance it might seem that China, with her vast reservoir of manpower, could stand such losses easily. But the cold fact is that Peiping is gravely worried over the heavy Chinese casualties in battle and from fatal diseases. The drain has begun to be felt.

In the long run this fresh Chinese onslaught may prove a benefit in disguise. It may weaken China so that the Korean war can be confined to the peninsula, and thus prevent a major Asiatic upheaval which would precipitate World War III.

Eccles Would Abolish RFC

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP)—Mariner S. Eccles, a federal reserve board governor, said today the Reconstruction Finance Corporation "should be abolished without further delay."

Eccles testified before the Senate Banking committee at general hearings on what to do about the future of the big government lending agency. He argued:

"There is no real place in a private enterprise economy for direct government lending to the private economy any more than there is a place for direct ownership of the means of production."

"Government participation in either is socialistic in nature and will, if continued and expanded, weaken and ultimately destroy the private free enterprise system."

A number of bills dealing with the RFC are before the banking committee.

First Triplets At Saint Mary's Hospital

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., April 27.—(AP)—The first triplets ever delivered at St. Mary's hospital today were reported "doing fine."

The three baby girls were born yesterday to Mrs. Fletcher Storebeck, 27, wife of a Granite City steel worker. They weighed three pounds, three pounds six ounces, and three pounds 12 ounces.

They were transferred to the premature section of Christian Welfare hospital and placed in incubators. "So far, they're doing fine," an attendant said.

The Storebecks have two other children, a girl, 6, and a boy, 4.

Is Acquitted Of Disturbance At Funeral

LIBERTY, Mo., April 27.—(AP)—A jury in magistrate court today acquitted Mrs. Genevieve Harris, St. Joseph, Mo., of a charge of disturbing the peace at her mother-in-law's funeral January 12 at Smithville Baptist church.

Killed In Collision On Intercity Viaduct

KANSAS CITY, April 27.—(AP)—Charles D. Hicks, 35, was killed and two men were injured when a car and a panel delivery truck collided head-on today on Intercity viaduct.

Traffic between Missouri and Kansas was halted for an hour while police and firemen worked with crowbars to remove the dead man and the injured driver of the truck from the wreckage.

Cecil Loganbill, 49, Versailles, Mo., driver of the truck, suffered a head injury, multiple fractures and shock and is in a critical condition.

Police officers Sam Lutjen and Herman Hoehns were riding in a patrol car and were checking Henri's Tavern at Harrison and Main and saw the incident. By the time they got to Main and Grand the bandit disappeared north on Grand avenue and they were unable to find any trace of him.

Meat Shortages In Some Areas

By The Associated Press
Meat shortages are springing up in many areas throughout the country, and most packers are putting the blame on "part-way" prince controls.

The packers queried in an Associated Press survey largely blamed the sporadic but ominous shortage on the fact that livestock prices were allowed to rise after the government-ordered price freeze put ceilings on meat. They pointed out, however, that the ceilings vary.

For instance, they said, small processors with higher ceilings have been able to buy away animals from the big packers. Such a development has nudged meat supplies out of normal channels in many areas and has forced retailers to get their meat from other sources and usually at higher prices.

Meat industry spokesmen claimed that's how black markets develop.

Housewives have complained that they can get varied meat cuts only from high-priced specialty shops.

Some slaughterers and packers, asserted, caught in the ceiling squeeze, have been forced to curtail or stop operations. Many buy just enough to keep their plants running, often at a loss. Others have given workers early vacations.

Low-priced meat has tended to disappear from many competitive stores which are required to abide by low retail ceilings.

Beef and veal supplies below normal to very tight in some cities.

Lamb is scarce almost everywhere—partly a seasonal condition before spring lambs are sent to market.

Pork and poultry appear to be in normal supply everywhere.

Through Mine Fields
As soon as we'd shoot down one wave, they'd send up another one," said Capt. John J. Monaghan of Bellerose, N. Y. "They walked right through our mine fields. We could hear them screaming from west to east where they kept right on coming."

Without antitank guns, the Reds swarmed over U. N. tanks like ants. In one case American tanks spread out and shot Chinese off each other's backs.

The same type of warfare was typical of the "aimless" battlefields from west to east where Red pressure again increased.

At dawn Friday Allied troops still held a substantial chunk of North Korean soil, AP Correspondent Nat Polowetzky reported. Two Red Korean attacks near Inje were beaten off during the night. U. N. artillery broke up a third before it could get started.

In this sector 15,000 rounds of artillery were fired in 24 hours. A corps spokesman said it was the heaviest firing for the corps during the Korean war.

On the east coast, South Korean troops held the main coastal road of 38. They were supported by the big guns of U. N. warships. To the north warships maintained a 70-day siege of Wonsan and Songjin, Red Korean ports.

Friday's rain hampered Allied airmen who had been flying more than 1,000 sorties daily. But American, South African and Australian planes managed to slip through the clouds and bomb, burn and shoot the Reds.

Two flights of F-51 Mustangs turned the highway to the front into a road of death for a Red column Friday morning. Firebombs scorched the earth where the Communists marched. Those who escaped into ditches were machinegunned.

B-29 Superfortresses continued their daily bombing of North Korean air fields. There still was no sign of the Reds using the 3,000 planes they are reported to have.

A residence, truck garage and storage building were destroyed. An office building and warehouse were burning, but their flames were being brought under control.

Cause of the blasts have not been determined. There was no immediate estimate of damage.

The fire still threatened four near-by gasoline storage tanks, but firemen believed these could be saved.

Flames from the burning gasoline were so thick that firemen could not see the extent of the spread. First reports said the entire three-block industrial area was engulfed in a mass of flames.

The explosion occurred in a 12,000-gallon tank and a 20,000-gallon tank of the Sinclair bulk gasoline station. The blasts jarred residents of this town of 10,620 population out of their beds and broke many windows. No one was reported injured.

Troy is 20 miles north of Dayton, Ohio.

Approve Wolf Bounties

The Pettis County court approved the payment of wolf bounties to Glen Hunter of Green Ridge and Francis Kreisel of Cole Camp. Hunter received $14.00 for one old and one young wolf scalp while Kreisel received $32.00 for eight young scalps.

Was Bitten By Dog
Mrs. Rosalee Alcorn, 1504 East Seventh street, suffered severe wounds to the left leg when bitten by a dog about 7:00 a. m. today. Mrs. Alcorn was treated at the Bethwell hospital by Dr. C. Gordon Stauffer and released to go to her home.

Personal

Mrs. Maude Finnell Horton, 1617 East Ninth has returned after spending several months visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Greuter and Mrs. Greuter, of Little Rock, Ark., and also a son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Anson Finnell of Brownington, Mo.

Contact With The Reds Is Broken By Withdrawals

Canadians and Americans pitched in each time to rescue trapped units.

Most fought clear with relatively light losses. But one, the British Royal Gloucestershire First Battalion, lost heavily. It was overwhelmed by sheer numbers of Chinese.

AP Correspondent Tom Bradshaw reported that part of one company were the only known survivors. Censors withheld the exact losses.

"There were some nasty scenes up there," said an officer of the 20th Commonwealth Brigade, to which the Gloucesters belonged. "I saw a column of our tanks coming back, carrying piles of dead and wounded."

Three American battalions fought their way out of a trap on the central front against heavy odds.

Despite entrapments and withdrawals, there was a strong air of confidence in Allied ranks.

Red cavalry joined infantrymen moving on the old capital from the north. They advanced without armor or artillery. They pitted sheer manpower against Allied firepower.

"They came at us in the same old 'warms,' Lt. John P. Geraci said of a typical action.

NEW YORK, April 27.—(AP)—Allan E. Paris, former Missouri and Kansas newspaperman, died in Roosevelt hospital last night of a skull fracture.

Delay Action on Training Plan

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP)—A delay of two weeks to a month in efforts to iron out Senate-House differences in the draft-universal military training program was decided upon today.

The Senate investigation of the firing of General Douglas MacArthur was given as the main reason for the delay.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services committee and Vinson (D-Ga.) of the similar House group told reporters of the decision after a closed-door session.

"Senators will be completely occupied next week and for some time in the MacArthur hearings," Russell said. "Chairman Vinson and the House conferees have agreed to the change."

The Senate chairman announced agreement upon half a dozen more minor points but major Senate-House differences remained unresolved as they decided upon a recess.

The existing Selective Service act will expire July 9. Russell said he expects to get the conference committee together "before a month."

Mulbry Quits As Secretary

CINCINNATI, April 27.—(AP)—Walter Mulbry quit today as secretary-treasurer of baseball. He announced his action in a telephone call, adding that there will be "no comment" on his action.

Mulbry's resignation has been in the hands of baseball's executive council since March 12.

At that time, however, he was asked to continue in office until further notice.

Mulbry resigned formally at the time the baseball club owners refused to re-elect A. B. (Happy) Chandler as commissioner for another seven-year term.

Chandler and Mulbry, boyhood friends who had worked together from the time the commissioner was governor of Kentucky, and in the U. S. Senate, became bitter enemies in the last year.

The commissioner appointed Mulbry as secretary and treasurer when he took office nearly six years ago. Under baseball rules, however, Chandler could not fire Mulbry from his $30,000 a year job. Only baseball's executive council could do that.

Critical on 'FBI Tactics'

HAYTI, Mo., April 27.—(AP)—J. V. Conran, prosecuting attorney of New Madrid county, bitterly criticized federal civil rights legislation and practices of the FBI agents in enforcing and investigating certain phases of the Civil Liberties Act in an address before the Southeast Missouri Peace Officers association here last night.

Not mentioning any particular cases, the speaker, who's Democratic political leader in the bootheel area, was extremely critical of "FBI tactics" in trying to make cases under the civil rights laws.

"You are not supposed to touch a prisoner," he asserted, "even if he curses you or abuses you in any way. Instead you should pick a few daisies and hand them to the fellow even if he calls you dirty names."

Conran charged the FBI is trying to take law enforcement powers away from local authorities. He told of the pyramiding of government agencies with one bureau watching another and with men in some agencies spying on others in the same agencies.

"Better tactics are being used," he declared, asserting that one never knows now who his next door neighbor may be.

"Without the Missouri Highway Patrol we would have practically no law enforcement in many Missouri counties today," Conran declared.

Thirty Days For Petit Larceny

John Mean, who gave his home as Pittsburgh, Pa., pleaded guilty to Judge Jerry Trotter on a charge of petit larceny and was given thirty days in the city jail. Mean was arrested in connection with the ransacking of a car of Ray Teel, which was parked near Second and Lamine.

About 1:00 a. m. today a shot was heard fired in a room at the Miller hotel and when police investigated found no one there. A short time later Officer Willard Duncan arrested Mean, who admitted he had taken a .22 caliber target pistol from the Teel car and that it was accidentally exploded in his room after which he left.

Higher Taxes To Cut Profits

ing, refining and fabricating companies.

All of the 10 companies sampled did better this year than in the 1950 first quarter. But some gained only slightly while others nearly doubled their earnings. The big boosts reflect both increased demand for oil products and the benefits the big companies are now reaping from their huge postwar expansion and improvement facilities.

Other industries with rosier pictures this year include the aircraft, sparked by defense orders; and construction industry, reflecting the building boom.

Flood Threat At Canton Is More Serious

school classes for Negroes which had been transferred to a church hall from the regular school building. The community's other schools closed yesterday.

The Canton light and water company would be endangered if the river rises another 1.3 feet. A sandbag barrier has been thrown up around the plant. A rise of eight-tenths of a foot would force removal of electric motors from the Canton lock and dam on the Mississippi.

At Hannibal, the Burlington railroad hired a number of workers in an effort to stem the flow of backwaters flooding part of the railroad's yards there. The railroad asked the U. S. Employment service to provide an additional 25 workers for sandbagging purposes.

The Mississippi reached a stage of 20.5 feet at Hannibal this morning and a new forecast from the government weather bureau at Burlington, Ia., was for 21.2 feet Tuesday. This was a foot higher than a previous crest forecast.

All levees in the Hannibal area have withstood stages of more than 22 feet.

An industrial section of Hannibal through which Bear creek flows was regarded as the most seriously threatened. Because of river backwaters, the creek was bank full. A sudden heavy rain sending it out of its banks would result in serious damage.

Several riverfront streets were flooded by backwaters and the water had seeped into basements of a number of buildings in the area.

Blaze Damages A Newspaper

SIoux FALLS, S.D., April 27.—(AP)—An early morning fire today burned out the newsroom, advertising departments and executive offices of the Daily Argus-Leader, South Dakota's largest newspaper.

Also damaged, apparently less seriously, were the paper's printing shop, press room and newsprint storage room.

The Associated Press Bureau was also heavily damaged. Emergency service was established in another building.

A loss estimate was not immediately available.

The regular 8 a. m. (CST) edition of the paper was missed.

The fire was discovered shortly before 6 a. m. today by an employee. Flames broke out in a basement storage room and worked upwards through the wood and brick editorial offices contained in a two-story section of the building about 40 years old. The fire spread to a one-story newer section of the structure containing the mechanical departments.

Firemen appeared to be making headway against the blaze shortly before 8 a. m. They ordered about 20 guests from the nearby Marlard hotel, although fire had not spread to that building.

Mariners Club To Kansas City

The Mariners club of the Presbyterian church will go to Kansas City Sunday afternoon for the purpose of organizing two Marine clubs; one at the Covenant Presbyterian church at 60th and Swope Parkway and the other at the Broadland Presbyterian church at 79th St. Terrace and Main.

The initiation ceremonies will be held at the Covenant Presbyterian church.

All Mariners are asked to be at the Covenant church at 4:30 p. m. of the initiation. These officers are: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wiley, of Sedalia, skippers; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Richards of Hannibal, first mates; Mr. and Mrs. James Durley, Sedalia logkeepers and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Eshelman of Clinton, pursers.

The Sedalia Mariners club previously organized a club at Clinton and at Brookfield, both clubs are active and progressive.

Jail Term by Petit Larceny

B. R. Clark, 400 East Second, was sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $100 by Judge Jerry Trotter in police court this morning. Clark was charged with petit larceny to which he pleaded not guilty and also to being drunk to which he pleaded guilty.

A hearing was held in court after which Judge Trotter found him guilty and assessed the fine and sentenced him to jail.

"Blessed Are the Peacemakers"

JESUS went up into a mountain, and his disciples came to Him. And He taught them, saying:
"Blessed are the poor in spirit: For theirs is the kingdom of Heaven.
"Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.
"Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.
"Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled.
"Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.
"Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.
"Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.
"Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of Heaven.
"Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.
"Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you."

Pray Often

A few years ago a small group of war veterans in Manchester, N. H., started a peace prayer movement which has continued to grow in this country and to make substantial progress outside the United States.

"It would be a wonderful thing," a leader of the movement said, "if a custom should spring up in every town and city of the United States whereby at noon all traffic and industry would come to a halt and simultaneously every man, woman and child should lift his mind and heart toward God in prayer for peace."

It may not seem very much to get people to spend a minute a day in prayers for peace. Multiplied millions of times over, the minute of prayer, can, through the power of God, achieve great things. Furthermore, it might be a means for bringing the millions of America's "un-churched" if not into the churches at least into the ranks of those to whom prayer is an important part of their lives.

Prayer is the elevation of the soul to God. It is man's way of conversing with his Maker, of making known his wants, of offering to the Lord of Creation his humble thanks for the blessings that come from His hands.

It is certainly true that the prayers of millions of people asking God for peace in the world will not go unheeded. But no individual should imagine that it is enough to limit himself to participation in a peace prayer campaign that calls for just one minute of prayer a day.

A real habit of prayer calls for continual and persevering dedication and supplication to God. God expects His creatures to think of Him often and to approach Him in all their necessities. Every life is beset with special problems and difficulties that demand recourse to God.

More important still is the fact that prayer is necessary to sustain faith and to strengthen the virtues of hope and charity. The great St. Paul many times stressed that prayer is an essential part of the spiritual life. Christ, who was without sin, then, should many times when He was on earth. How much more, then, should imperfect men, who, without God, are helpless and lost, lift their voices to the throne of heaven.

Sunday School Lesson

From Bondage to Freedom
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The story is well known of how Jacob and his great company went down to Egypt, and flourished under the power and patronage of his illustrious son. But it is a story that cannot be too well known.

I realized this some years ago, when a Baptist minister, who was an accomplished elocutionist came to address a large men's meeting over which I was presiding.

His "address" that day consisted of a recitation without comment of the 11 chapters of Genesis, in the Authorized Version, that tell the story of Joseph. For me it was a thrilling experience.

I had never before realized how the amazing story is so amazingly told, the details and contrasts brought out with vividness and dramatic effect, the steadfastness under temptation, the fortitude under imprisonment and bitter disappointment, the uncorrupted character under power and virtual dictatorship and through it all the very noble and very human Joseph, avenging himself by a very subtle trick upon the brethren, who had sold him into slavery.

But trouble began for the people in a foreign land, when there arose "a Pharaoh, who knew not Joseph." The racial and religious prejudice, unfortunately still alive in the world, even in our supposedly enlightened, democratic environment, soon wreaked its havoc upon the Jews.

Great works of ancient time soon became the symbols of injustice and oppression. Forced to make bricks without straw, the remnant of those who had come to Egypt seeking food and finding apparent happiness, were cast into bondage, suffering cruelly. Later a man, foster-son of the palace, renounced his foster-mother, and his prospect of ease and power, to share the affliction of his own people, and lead them out of bondage toward freedom.

But it was, as we know, by no means as simple as that. Hardships, discouragements, rebellious spirits, yearnings to turn back, wanderings in the wilderness, conflicts, marked the way until the freedom of Canaan was won.

But it was a march from bondage to freedom. All is not bright and pleasant in that record, but what is bright, and what shines with especial glory, is the conception of liberty enshrined in the ancient Jewish Scriptures. In a world in which everywhere slavery was prevalent, it is remarkable how the Jews designed laws and regulations to protect the community against slavery and the individual in his rights.

One cannot go into this fully here, but one can point to the laws designed to prevent serfdom, the protection of a debtor against becoming permanently in bondage to his creditor and the Cities of Refuge as safety for those who had inadvertently injured another.

The heritage of liberty that the world owes to the Jews is immense, but unfortunately the world has never fully appreciated it.

Senators Are Boosted Into First Place

In National League
Johnny Sain Shut Out The Giants

By Jack Hand
Associated Press Sports Writer
Everybody looks like Christy Mathewson when the Philadelphia A's are in town. Now it's Connie Marrero, Washington's chunky Cuban with a one-hitter.

Marrero picked up where the Yanks Eddie Lopat and Spec Shea left off. The Latin missed his shutout last night on Barney McCoskey's first home run since 1947 but he pitched the majors first one-hitter of 1951.

The fun-loving little Cuban stuffed a seventh straight loss down the A's throats, 2-1, winning on homers by Mickey Vernon and Gil Coan.

The win over Philadelphia's Joe Coleman boosted Washington into a first-place tie with the idle Cleveland Indians in the American League.

The shocking failure of the New York Giants is headline stuff in the National.

Manager Leo Durocher is getting testy as his giants continued their slump.

Johnny Sain shut out the Giants, 3-0, with six hits as Boston spoiled Sal Maglie's 34th birthday. A two-run homer by Roy Hartsfield, followed by Sam Petroche's fifth home run, broke open a scoreless game in the eighth inning.

Robin Roberts hoisted the champion Philadelphia Phils into a first place percentage tie with the idle St. Louis Cards by whipping Brooklyn, 2-0. The Phils made only three hits count while the Dodgers wasted eight.

Chris Van Cuyk allowed only one hit in seven innings but trailed 1-0 when lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth. The lone hit, a single by Andy Seminick in the third, advanced Dick Sisler, hit by a pitched ball, to third. He scored on Mike Gollat's fly. The second run came off Clem Labine in the eighth.

The four western teams in the National and American were not scheduled.

The Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees staged a real daytime slugfest at Fenway.

With Billy Goodman slugging four hits and knocking in three runs, the Red Sox knocked off the Yanks, 13-7, in a 3-hour 30-minute struggle. There were 20 walks and 22 hits off a parade of pitchers.

Ellis Kinder, the only effective pitcher used by either side, allowed only two hits after coming into the game in the fifth. It was his fifth relief job in eight Boston games. Allie Reynolds, second of four Yank pitchers, was the loser.

Novocain Keeps Golfer at Top

By Ken Alvya
PINEHURST, N. C., April 27—(AP)—As long as her novocain supply holds out Charlotte DeCoven apparently is going to put the needle into her name opponents in the 49th Women's North and South golf tournament.

The Parsippany, N. J., girl, unknown in major golfing circles, took on her third successive nationally known rival, Mae Murray of Rutland, Vt. and Southern Pines, N.C., in today's semi-finals.

After what she'd done the last two days, galleries had decided not to sell her shot against the 1950 national runnerup, Miss DeCoven got by Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, a former national champion and seven-time winner here, with a one up, 19-hole victory in yesterday's quarter finals.

It was her second successive victory over a former Curtis Cupper. On Tuesday Dorothy Kieley of Los Angeles was her victim, one up, this time over 18 holes.

The New Jersey girl, with less than two years of tournament experience, has played with a neurotic left arm that requires novocain treatment each morning.

Miss Murray earned her place with a 3 and 2 over Mrs. Catherine Fox Park of Bloomfield, N. J.

The other semi-finalists are defending champion Pat O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn., and Southern Pines, and Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill. Each was a 5 and 4 winner yesterday. Miss O'Sullivan turned back medalist, Mary Lena Faulk, Thomasville, Ga., and Miss Lindsay, scored over Mary Ann Downey, Baltimore.

Citation Runs Third Despite Strong Finish On Bay Meadows Track

SAN MAETO, Calif., April 27—(AP)—Mighty Citation, in the twilight of a brilliant racing career, ran third today at Bay Meadows in a six furlong sprint. He was beaten by Pancho Supreme and A Lark. Time was 1:09 4/5.

Big Cy closed strong but could not catch the speed laid down by the winner and second place racers.

Big Cy was beaten by the same two last week in the first start of the 1951 comeback try at boosting his earnings to the $1,000,000 mark.

Sport Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
NEW YORK, April 27—(AP)—Looks like the best miss-named team in the sports business is the Harlem Globe Trotters. They never could handle that two-way summer program at anything less than a dead run.

The European contingent, which opens in London May 14, with eight games in the first week, is booked solidly until Aug. 26.

They're even visiting three new countries — Ireland, Spain and Sweden — this summer.

Another group leaves Miami today for six weeks in South America, before joining the main team.

Report from North Carolina says several large colleges in that state have been making eyes at Davidson coach Crowell Little, anticipating service calls on their coaching staffs.

And that Little likely will listen unless the college administration gives him a little more help. If you say the Buffalo Bisons' pitchers are ahead of the hitters this spring, you're not kidding.

After the first six games, the Buffalo mound staff was batting a neat .389, which the rest of the team couldn't approach.

Taken For Grant-ed
Eddie Sawyer was being interviewed the other day when someone came up with a question about the service status of his Phillies.

"Most of our players are veterans," Eddie explained. "For instance, Richie Ashburn was in Alaska. Granny Hamner fought the battle of Camp Lee. And Jimmy Bloodworth fought WITH Lee."

Sports Before Your Eyes
Before the Kansas relays last week, Oklahoma coach John Jacobs warned his track men: "This ain't no country meet. The boys will be running for the jewelry. They came home with 12 wrist watches. Wonder what his formula for this week's Drake meet?"

Annual statement of the Jockeys' Guild shows $22,025.03 paid out from the welfare fund in 1950 for medical and financial aid. That doesn't include insurance payments.

Annual statement from the American Legion lists 90 players who took part in major league openers as coming up from the Legion Junior Baseball program.

It cost Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella $100 apiece to take part in that 16-inning game against the Braves Monday. They were supposed to get a C-note apiece for appearing at the opening of a super market and were too late.

A U. of Illinois publicity item says: "Pete Palmer, big freshman tackle from St. Louis, is studying for an operative career as a tenor." Could that mean he has a voice like a saw?

Baseball's Excutive Council Clears The Way For Chandler To Quit As Big League Boss

NEW YORK, April 27—(AP)—Baseball's executive council has cleared the path for the immediate resignation of Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler by yielding to his demand that the secretary-treasurer of baseball, Walter Mulbry, go out at the same time.

The decision was reached following a lengthy meeting between Chandler and John Galbreath, president of the Pittsburgh club and an emissary of the council, it was learned from a highly authoritative source. The two talked for more than five hours last Saturday in Cincinnati.

Galbreath, whose mission was to "get Chandler to resign immediately," returned with the following Chandler ultimatum: "I'll go only if Mulbry goes."

Neither Chandler nor any member of the four-man executive council would discuss the reported decision.

"No comment," were the terse words of Chandler when asked for a statement. These words were echoed by President Will Harridge of the American league, owner Tom Yawkey of the Boston Red Sox and general manager Warren Giles of the Cincinnati Reds.

President Ford Frick of the National league, the other council members, could not be reached.

Once Friends—Now Enemies
Once close friends, Chandler and Mulbry became bitter enemies in the course of the uproar during the winter in which the 16 major league club owners voted not to renew Chandler's contract. Since then the owners have been trying without success, to buy up Happy's $65,000-a-year pact which does not expire until April 30, 1952.

Chandler, who accused Mulbry of being instrumental in his ouster last December and again the following March, had laid a charge of "disloyalty" on his former sidekick. After learning of his fate following the Miami Beach meeting of the owners of March 12, the former Kentucky governor and senator made this plea:

"Give me the satisfaction of firing Mulbry before I leave office."

Under the major league agreement, the commissioner appoints the $30,000-a-year secretary, who continues in office at the pleasure of the executive council. This means that Chandler, who got Mulbry the job soon after he was named commissioner in April, 1945, could not fire him.

Mulbry's Resignation Refused
When informed of Chandler's request, Mulbry immediately offered his resignation to the executive council. It was refused.

Mulbry then disclosed he had tried to resign as far back as December, before the first Chandler repudiation, but was asked to stay.

"Loyalty is a two-way street," was his reply to Chandler's disloyalty charge. "It isn't only the underling who should be loyal to his superior. It works both ways."

Reached in Cincinnati, Mulbry said today he had stayed in his job at the specific request of the executive council and that his "going or staying does not appear to be world shaking."

"I am agreeable to doing whatever seems to serve the best interest of baseball," he said.

"This is in contrast to Chandler's attitude," he added.

Senators Peddle Ex-Indian Star To Detroit Club

WASHINGTON, April 27—(AP)—Gene Bearden, one-time star Cleveland pitcher, was sold by the Washington Senators Thursday to the Detroit Tigers for an undisclosed amount.

Bearden, who pitched Cleveland to the American League pennant, in a playoff game at Boston in 1948, has been far off form this season.

He was hit hard in exhibition games, and was blasted by the New York Yankees here last week. Making his first appearance of the season, he lasted only two and two-third innings against the Yanks. He issued two walks and gave up six hits.

It was only three years ago that Bearden was baseball's glamour boy. He earned honors as rookie of the year after compiling a 20 win, seven lost record which highlighted Cleveland's drive to the pennant. He came to Washington last Aug. 2 for the waiver price of $10,000. His 1950 record was 4-8 and 8-3 slate in 1949.

WALKER TEAM SAILS TO ENGLAND

NEW YORK, April 27—(AP)—Seven members of the United States Walker Cup team, decked out in nifty pea-green jackets, sail for England on the Parthia this afternoon, confident of defeating the Britons in their match at the Birkdale Golf club May 11 and 12.

The two missing members of the nine-men squad are Frank Stranahan, the Toledo strong boy who will fly over later so he won't lose practice time and Dick Chapman, former national amateur champion, who has made other travel arrangements.

The seven had a best ball competition yesterday with club members and USGA officials. National amateur champion Sam Uzzetta of Rochester, N. Y., had a two-under par 69.

The trip won't be a novel experience for several members of the squad. Chapman and Stranahan have been over many times, as has Willie Turnesa, who has replaced the veteran Francis Ouimet as captain of the team. Jimmie McHale of Philadelphia and Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., each has been across twice.

Other members of the squad who will ship out today include Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City,

Stengel Dubious About Stengel

By Bill King

BOSTON, April 27—(AP)—Psychological students who have done considerable research on ole Case Stengel's deeply creased features suspect he is far from convinced that his 19-year-old Mickey Mantle is going to blossom into the American League's 1951 outstanding rookie.

Almost every time that youngster, attempting the herculean task of changing himself from a Class C Western Association shortstop into the New York Yankees' regular right fielder, was mentioned here yesterday, Stengel reacted in highly significant fashion.

He gave a perfect imitation of a highly conservative racetrack bettor who bought a ticket on a longshot by mistake and, even after cashing in on it, vowed never again.

"That's a great big right field out there and I don't think the kid can handle it just now," Stengel explained. He also pointed out that Mantle, who almost set the Yankee stadium afire his first few times at bat, had cooled off to a .242 average after eight games.

After the Red Sox had stormed from behind into their final 13-7 lead, Stengel sent in Mantle to pinch-hit for Bill Johnson in the ninth. The youngster went down swinging against the exceptionally effective Ellis Kinder.

In the previous frame, the long-silent Red Sox bats started roaring and four of five vicious drives screamed into right field.

"When those guys' left-handed hitters get the range, right field is no safe place for the children," went the initial Stengel post-game epigram.

For years I have tried to trace my brother Timothy, who I knew had been adopted by English circus people in 1915. Recently, I learned that he died in an accident ten years ago, and that his child is being reared in the circus by his nephew. Donnie must be about twelve now, and is my only living relative. I have perished in America and could give my nephew a home and advantages the poor child has never known.

I haven't located Kit Carlyle, appealing to you to urge that he never know.

Jack Knife Farming. BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — (P) — Growing up around Albert E. Halladay, 85, is the farm-in-miniature—he knew as a boy.

Halladay farmed until he was 55, sold real estate until he was past 80, then took up wood carving. With jack knife and hacksaw he carves out in authentic detail the equipment which farmers have used:

The maple sap tub with its little spigot and two wooden buckets alongside, all mounted on a sled pulled by two steers yoked together; a model of a long-disused milk wagon; a little dump-wagon that preceded the modern manure-spreader; a grindstone, wheelbarrow, pitchfork, bucksaw, shovels, rakes, a buggy.

Texas Treasure Beckons

EL PASO, Tex. — (P) — The El Paso chamber of commerce invites you to spend your vacation hunting for buried treasure.

The chamber, well aware of the pulling power of stories of hidden wealth, has revived a legend given much credence in the Southwest. The legend is that agents of Pancho Villa, the Mexican bandit, and revolutionary, buried a king's ransom in gold and jewels in the Franklin mountains near here. All the men who buried the treasure were supposed to have been killed and Villa was killed

MacArthur in A 'Fade Away' From Press

By Saul Pett

NEW YORK—(AP)—New York reporters learned this week that nobody can really "fade away" like an old soldier named Douglas MacArthur.

For five days, the general faded away from all physical contact with press or public. In that time, he continued to make the front pages every day, but no newsmen saw or talked with him.

From last Friday and his official reception here until he left today for Chicago, the press corps got nowhere near the general.

The general remained secluded in the 37th floor Astoria hotel. The newsmen, radio and television reporters who maintained an almost round the clock vigil were in a second-floor press room, 500 feet below.

One hardened police reporter talked his way up the elevator to the 37th floor. There he was immediately turned around by two big, armed military policemen.

One photographer made it to the 21st floor. He was there only to take pictures of the general's mail. And he was there only by a "pool" arrangement—that is, one photographer to represent the entire press corps.

All the press' questions about the deposed commander were handled by intermediaries.

I visited the second floor press room yesterday and never saw a more frustrated group of reporters. Every time they phoned the 37th floor, they said, they got a "no answer."

Had Secret Operator

The only one in the room who knew how to reach the general's New York headquarters was Paul Stewart, the hotel's publicity director. He did it in secret, by asking the switchboard for a secret operator.

Stewart didn't talk directly with the general. He talked with his chief aide, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney. Sometimes, he only got a sergeant.

Stewart explained that the general's press arrangements were very "informal." Others in the room said a better word was "unpredictable." It was, they pointed out, the habit of Gen. Whitney to drop down to the second floor now and then to answer questions.

The newsmen began forming questions to put to Gen. Whitney. "As long as we're fishing," one said, "we might as well push the Formosa thing a little further."

A woman said, "how about that Philadelphia report that MacArthur was offered $4,000,000 for his memoirs?"

"Whitney said he'd be down between 11 and 12," Stewart offered hopefully.

"Well, it's 12:05 now," somebody said.

Stewart fidgeted. "I'll give him another five minutes."

Then we all waited.

At 12:14 Stewart tried Whitney. The line was busy. At 12:20:5 Stewart got a sergeant on the phone, "I think he's on his way down," he said.

At 12:26, Gen. Whitney entered the room. A balding man with a ruddy face, he announced immediately, "I have nothing at all, unless you have some questions."

There were many questions, from what did Gen. MacArthur think about the new U. S. mission to Formosa, to how much does the general read the newspapers?

This last question produced the response that Gen. MacArthur reads only the official communications on Korea in the newspapers. "Doesn't he even read our stories about him?" a reporter asked.

"No," said Gen. Whitney.

At 12:35, Gen. Whitney departed, saying, "Well, I'm afraid I didn't give you anything weighty."

Booklet on the Sedalia Catholics

An interesting and informative history of Catholicity in Sedalia that dates back almost 100 years has been published in booklet form and copies may be obtained from Mrs. Al Miles, 643 East Fifth, who wrote the history.

Mrs. Miles started out to get just a few facts about the Catholic religious growth in this city but as she talked to first one and then another. She was offered pictures, too, many very old and she accepted them and then began to try to find others. She succeeded in getting the pictures of every priest that has been pastor.

In the booklet, too, are the part many pioneers here played in building the church, and the descendants of some of these people are still in Sedalia.

Workers Rescue Buried Plumber

WICHITA, Kas., April 27—(AP)—Rescue workers won only half their battle against death last afternoon when a 38-year-old plumber died at the bottom of a 15-foot ditch in a cave-in that trapped two workers.

Dead is Merle Bush, father of two young children. Floyd Nicholas Martin, 18, was rescued after being trapped for more than an hour, with only his face clear of the dirt. He lost a foot, but his life was spared.

The two men were working on a sewer connection line when the cave-in occurred. Mott was covered temporarily by dirt, but his head was cleared by Ralph Henak, who witnessed the accident. Firemen, sheriff's deputies and volunteers worked feverishly for nearly two hours before they could remove the body of Bush.

Mott, helpless in the throat during the 65 minutes required to free him. He was given oxygen during the rescue operation as a precaution against shock after his removal from the ditch. He was able to stand alone, however, and was released from a hospital after a check-up.

New Employee Presses Wrong Button; Kills One, Injures Another

TAMPA, Fla., April 27—(AP)—A new employee pressed the wrong button Thursday and set the blades of a cement mixer whirling while two men were inside it. One was killed and the other lost both feet.

Greenberry Canada and Albert Mingo were cleaning the huge stationary mixer at a block plant. James Julian, who had been working three or four days, was on the outside operating a cable to remove buckets of dirt scraped from the inside.

City Detective A. Y. Myers said Julian pressed the mixer button instead of the cable button.

When the mixer was finally stopped Canada was dead and Mingo's feet so badly mangled they had to be amputated.

Dawson Named In Deal For Patronage Control

WASHINGTON, April 27—(AP)—Donald Dawson, the White House aide who has figured in the RFC investigation, was named Thursday as the man who paved the way for a pro-Truman Democratic faction in Mississippi to get control of federal patronage there.

Glenn P. Boehm, Washington industrial consultant, said he put leaders of the Truman faction in the state in touch with Dawson in April, 1949. The appointment of Clarence C. Hood, Jr., a Truman aide as the patronage - distributing Democratic National Committee man for Mississippi followed, Boehm said.

Dedication to be Held Sunday

Residents of this part of the state will attend the joint Founder's day program and dedication of the new student center building to be held in Hendricks hall at Central Missouri State college, Sunday afternoon (April 29) beginning at 3 o'clock.

Mayor William E. Kemp of Kansas City, an alumnus of the college, will be principal speaker, and James C. Kirkpatrick, of Jefferson City, president of the CMSC board of regents, will preside. Mrs. J. H. Hart of Kansas City, a regent, will be in charge of the official dedication of the student center.

Leonard Husher of Higginsville, a regent, will present the new building, and George W. Diemer, president of the college, will accept for CMSC. Judge James R. Garrison of Warrensburg, a member of the board of regents, will present Mayor Kemp. Earl T. Crawford of Sedalia, also a regent, will give the dedicatory prayer.

The 65-piece CMSC band, directed by Prof. C. A. Burmeister, and the Madrigal choir, directed by Prof. Paul R. Utt, will furnish music.

Walter Pence of Chillicothe, student chairman of the social and recreational committee, will speak on opportunities and responsibilities of students. Invocation will be given by the Rev. Robert Young, and the benediction by Dr. Luther Harris, both of Warrensburg.

Miss Laura Madalyn Hills of Warrensburg, will play an organ prelude and postlude. Donald McRoberts of Kansas City, will sing a solo, accompanied by Miss Mills.

Following the dedication service, there will be an open house, to give an opportunity, to see the new $200,000 student center; and a tea will be held in the main lounge with 19 student organizations assisting.

Guests will be received by President and Mrs. Diemer, Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Husher, Mr. and Mrs. Garrison, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Wheeler of Jefferson City; Judge and Mrs. Dewey Thatch of Clinton; Dean and Mrs. L. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Orvil Alderman.

Senators Approve Symington As RFC's New One-Man Boss

WASHINGTON, April 27—(AP)—W. Stuart Symington, government administrator, convinced the Senate banking committee Thursday that he's the man to take over the oft-criticized RFC.

The committee questioned him closely for two hours and then voted to approve his nomination as one-man boss of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The giant government lending agency has been under fire in charges by a Senate investigating committee that it yielded to political influence in making millions of dollars worth of loans.

Beholden To No One

Symington, now head of the National Security Resources Board told the Senators he was "beholden" to no one, and that President Truman had given him a free hand to "in and reorganize the RFC."

If the Senate approves his nomination, he will take office as administrator about the end of the month, replacing the present five-man board of directors.

A strong bloc in Congress wants to abolish the RFC, but Symington disagrees with them.

He told the committee he never would join an agency believing it should be abolished because it would not be fair to the employees. One reason the RFC should be preserved, he said, is the service it can perform for small business.

A great danger to the American system of free enterprise, he said, "is the slow but steady elimination of small business."

Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.), chairman of the Senate banking subcommittee which is still investigating the RFC, asked Symington, "are you in any way beholden to Donald Dawson?"

"No sir," Symington replied. Dawson is a White House aide who has been accused by the subcommittee of having exerted pressure on the RFC in connection with several loans.

At his news conference today, President Truman refused to say whether Dawson will comply with an urgent request of the committee that he appeared voluntarily and testify.

Mr. Truman said he would answer the question when it comes to him, adding that it was not up to him yet. Presumably the President is awaiting Dawson's own reply to the committee's request.

Chicago Welcomes M'Arthur

General Honors
Memory Of Troops
Who Died On Bataan

CHICAGO, April 26.—(P)—Between 3,500,000 and 4,500,000 cheering midwesterners gave General MacArthur a ear-splitting welcome today, but the war hero's only public words were for his men who died on Bataan.

From the time MacArthur stepped from his plane at Midway airport at 12:20 p. m. CST until he entered his suite in the Stevens hotel at 3:10, he was the center of the biggest and noisiest demonstration in the history of Chicago and the Midwest.

Children and adults screamed and waved flags, banners and scarfs at the airport. Cheers and blasts from factory and locomotive whistles and automobile horns followed his progress on a triumphal 23 mile ride through the city. A blizzard of Confetti and ticker tape and a full-throated welcome greeted him in the loop.

General Remains Calm
Through the long parade MacArthur sat quietly and smiling, waving to the throngs that crammed sidewalks, rooftops and even trees.

But he was sober when the 17 car motorcade stopped at the Bataan-Corregidor bridge, erected in homage to the troops who died in the Philippines in World War 2.

After a clergyman recited a brief prayer, MacArthur slowly removed his gold - braided cap and said:

"These men were mine. I shall always hold them inviolate in my heart. Since they fell, I have shared with their mothers and families the sorrow of their passing."

One gold star mother wept. A mammoth jamboree was planned for MacArthur tonight in Soldier Field, where the general will make a 10 minute talk.

Orchids Shower MacArthurs
When the MacArthurs arrived at the Stevens Hotel, 1,500 orchids were tossed from fourth floor windows, showered upon Mrs. MacArthur as she entered the building.

A five-star diamond and platinum pin, designed and made by a Chicago jewelry firm, was presented to her.

The Chicago turnout proportionately was as great or greater than the 7,500,000 that greeted MacArthur in New York last week. Chicago's population is only half that of New York, but thousands came from other midwest cities. Police Commissioner Timothy J. O'Connor estimated the crowd at 4,500,000, but police traffic headquarters said unit commanders put the figure at 2,500,000.

MacArthur Says He'll Continue Policy Search

CHICAGO, April 26.—(P)—Gen. MacArthur told a cheering crowd in Soldier Field tonight he will continue to fight for "a positive and realistic policy" in the Far East.

"The old soldier," speaking from a spotlighted platform in the huge lake front amphitheatre, raised the question:

"What is our policy for Korea?" He said "Our losses there in ratio to men committed already have reached staggering proportions."

The "tragedy" of this, he declared, is that since the Chinese Reds joined in the fighting our policy has been in a "vacuum."

General MacArthur, ousted from his Far Eastern posts by President Truman, on April 11, made a grim, fighting address at the climax of a civic reception for him in Soldier's Field.

Andy Frain, chief of the crew of ushers estimated the crowd at 50,000.

MacArthur termed the current situation "completely unrealistic." "Although my public life now is closed," the general began, but he was interrupted by the audience.

Cries of "no, no," rolled across the field. Mrs. MacArthur and their son Arthur shook their heads at this expression from the audience. "It is closed," MacArthur insisted.

But, he added, he would exercise his responsibilities of citizenship.

"I shall continue," he said, "to advocate a positive and realistic policy for Korea."

UN Strives For Limited Conflict

Reds Must Force Warfare's Spread

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(P)—President Truman warned anew today that "the Communist rulers" may cause the war in Korea to spread. If they do, he said, they must face "the awful responsibility for what may follow."

Mr. Truman said the Communists also can choose to make a peaceful settlement. The United Nations forces, he said, "will strive to limit the conflict if possible."

Seizing on the words "if possible," a reporter asked whether Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, successor to Gen. Douglas MacArthur as U. N. commander in Korea, has been given authority to bomb Red bases in Manchuria if he deems it necessary.

No Comment
The President's reply: No comment.

At today's news conference Mr. Truman gave Secretary of State Acheson a new vote of confidence. He denied a published report that Paul Hoffman, former Marshall plan administrator, may succeed Acheson. He said he already had a secretary with whom he was very well satisfied.

There was a flurry of questioning about MacArthur, who was fired by the President for publicly advocating stronger measures against the Chinese Reds than the administration has been willing to allow.

Mr. Truman said that MacArthur was free to say and do what he pleases. That the President won't pull any strings on him.

One newsman brought up a statement by Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, MacArthur's spokesman, that the general still doesn't know why he was removed.

Everybody else knows why, Mr. Truman said, thus provoking a roar of laughter.

No Job In Mind

There was more laughter when he said that while MacArthur, as a five-star general, has a lifetime Army post, and is subject to being called back for further assignments, he hasn't any job in mind for the general at present.

Mr. Truman said the question of whether Donald Dawson, his personnel assistant, should obey a request to testify before a Senate investigating committee hasn't been put up to him yet. He added that he'll answer the question when it is put to him. Apparently he meant that Dawson hasn't asked him about it yet.

The request for Dawson's testimony was made yesterday by the Senate banking subcommittee which has named Dawson as a member of a clique with influence over Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans. Dawson didn't reply to a previous invitation by the committee to tell his story.

April 11 Speech Quoted
Mr. Truman opened the news conference by quoting two paragraphs from the April 11 speech in which he said MacArthur was

"The Communist side must now choose its course of action. The Communist ruler may press the attack against us. They may take further action which will spread the conflict. They have that choice, and with it the awful responsibility for what may follow."

The Communists also have the choice of a peaceful settlement which could lead to a general relaxation of tensions in the Far East. The decision is theirs, because the forces of the United Nations will strive to limit the conflict if possible."

Mr. Truman said this statement just about sums up U. S. policies.

Rains Forecast For Flood Area
By The Associated Press

Rain was forecast Thursday for most of the Mississippi river valley, where floods have driven thousands from their homes.

The big river was reported receding slightly in upper Iowa and Illinois, but new rains might put the stream on the rise again.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Chicago said showers would spread into the flood area Friday and Saturday night. The bureau said that some spots might get locally heavy rainfall.

The water level remained high in river towns in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri, but dikes so far have held at all strategic areas in the three states.

Showers fell Thursday in Colorado and Wyoming and were moving into Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska.

The man was no dummy. Robert H. Rodriguez, 33, a cook, was held on two counts of burglary. Officers charged he had also taken women's lingerie and other wearing apparel from nearby stores. They quoted Rodriguez as saying:

"My girl friend's getting out of jail. I want her to be dressed nice."

A Tribute

In days of health, in days of illness the regime of Rosemary Burrowes was to live for her newspaper, of which she was news editor. Like father and brothers before her she early determined to devote her life to newspaper work and thus it was she began her chosen career on the home town daily.

As the years passed Rosemary's personality, kindness, charity and counsel on duty and off duty penetrated to every nook and cranny of Sedalia community life. The town's problems, individual and family vexations were laid in her lap for advice. Her home and her office became a mecca for all of them. For whatever personal distress she had — and it was always suppressed — the church was sanctuary.

Some may say that those of us who for years worked beside and with her might be prone to over-emotionalism at a time like this; it is a human characteristic to be so. Yet Rosemary's life work is so indelibly written, so graphically demonstrated that superlatives become just average achievement in the record of her service.

Rosemary's newspaper duty was her real happiness. Her mind fought tenaciously against diminishing physical vigor, ever clinging to the hope that there might be yet another day for her at the office, another newspaper edition to edit, another person to befriend or advise.

She left behind a legacy of friendships and a reformed service to mankind the memory of which will never dim.

Czechs Jail AP Writer

Officials Charge
William N. Oatis
With Hostile Acts

FRANKFURT, Germany, April 26.—(P)—The Czechoslovak government has jailed William N. Oatis, one of two American correspondents remaining in Prague, on charges of hostile activities and spreading secret information.

The big river was reported receding slightly in upper Iowa and Illinois, but new rains might put the stream on the rise again. The U. S. Weather Bureau at Chicago said showers would spread into the flood area Friday and Saturday night. The bureau said that some spots might get locally heavy rainfall.

The water level remained high in river towns in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri, but dikes so far have held at all strategic areas in the three states.

Showers fell Thursday in Colorado and Wyoming and were moving into Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska.

U. S. Embassy Takes Action

The government announcement came after U. S. Embassy Counselor Tyler Thompson had asked for an urgent inquiry into Oatis' disappearance. Tyler, when told Oatis was in jail, demanded first orally and then by formal note to be permitted to interview the correspondent.

The Czech foreign ministry told Thompson his request would be looked into.

In New York Frank J. Starzel, general manager of the Associated Press, said the AP knows no basis for Oatis' arrest and will give him all possible assistance.

The American correspondent is 37 and served in the U. S. Army during World War II.

Agents Follow Correspondent
Before his disappearance, Oatis had complained to the U. S. Embassy that he was being followed 24 hours a day, presumably by secret agents. But he had written days ago to his New York headquarters that he hoped to return to Prague following his leave this summer.

Four other employees of the Associated Press—all Czechoslovak nationals—have disappeared during the past month. Two of them are reported under arrest in Prague's grim Pankrac prison, where Oatis also was held. It is believed that these men may be used as witnesses against Oatis.

Truman Presents His New Program To Halt Inflation

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(P)—President Truman urged Congress today to "hold the line" in the cost of living battle, to provide "fair ceilings on prices, including the prices of farm products, and on rents."

He called too for increased taxes, increased personal savings, tighter controls over credit and materials and the leveling off of wages and salaries at "fair" figures.

"This is an anti-inflation program that will work," he said in a message asking Congress to change and extend the Defense Production Act for two years beyond June 30.

He said the need was urgent, that "inflationary pressures, which are serious now, will be critical" next fall and winter when "the economy will be hit by the full impact of military production."

In another note of urgency, he said he hopes the country will "over the hump" of its defense mobilization in about two years from now if world war is avoided, but:

"The world situation could explode at any time, and we must make every day count."

Agriculture Group Opposes

Mr. Truman's plans for action on farm prices drew instant opposition from agriculture committees in Congress. In brief, he asks that:

1. Parity prices — theoretical farm prices which under the law are declared fair to farmers and consumers — be figured out once a year. Then, for price control purposes, the figures would be frozen for the rest of the year, instead of fluctuating monthly as now.

2. That the government be permitted to set price ceilings on most farm products at parity. He would retain a provision in present law which says that in the case of a number of products (including beef cattle, veal calves, sheep, lambs, wool and mohair), ceilings must be set above parity.

None of these could be frozen below prices prevailing during the month before the Korean war started.

Mr. Truman did not claim that this would cut the housewife's present grocery bill. Instead its purpose is to slow down any future increases.

There was no sign of any intention to order any substantial roll-back in those farm prices which are now above parity. Cotton price ceilings, for example, are now set far above parity to encourage production and there was no expectation that they would be cut.

Parity Idea Endangered
Some farm state legislators, however, anticipated Mr. Truman's plan would in effect abolish the parity idea, since parity is a standard which fluctuates up and down with the cost of things the farmer buys.

Senator Ellender (D-La.), chairman of the Senate agriculture committee, told reporters he is against the President's proposal on parity.

"The President apparently is trying to make the farmer the villain in this situation," Ellender declared.

Senator Aiken (R-Vt.) ranking minority member of the agriculture committee, assailed the Truman proposal as "outlandish and unfair." He told the Senate the President could hardly have found a more effective method of discouraging farm production than "a freeze of parity."

Mr. Truman suggested, in case his plan doesn't work, that Congress consider subsidies to farmers, such as were used in the last war to keep farm income up and consumer prices down.

He emphasized that to combat inflation all the people must pitch in and help.

"It is obvious," he said in discussing wages and prices, "that workers will have to forego substantial increases in wages which would be permissible if the dangers of inflation were not so great."

Just as businessmen and farmers will have to forego substantial increases in income for the same reason."

Tornadoes Hit 3 Kansas Areas

GARDEN CITY, Kas., April 26.—(P)—Tornadoes were reported in three places in southwest Kansas tonight, but early information indicated no casualties.

Milo Langford, city engineer of Ulysses, said a twister dipped one mile southwest of the town and continued northeast through wheat fields.

Another tornado came within one mile of Hugoton in Stevens county. The town fire alarm was sounded but the funnel didn't swing into Hugoton. Some damage was reported to farm buildings but checking was difficult because telephone lines were down.

The Kansas highway patrol here received a report from a patrol that a twister was sighted in open country three miles north of Rolla. Rolla is about 15 miles southwest of Hugoton and this twister might have been an earlier version of the one which hit Hugoton.

Thunderstorms and high winds were general over southwest Kansas.

Funeral Services for Miss Rosemary Burrowes, news editor of the Sedalia Democrat who died Wednesday night, will be held at 10 a. m. today in Sacred Heart church. The Rev. A. J. Brunswick will conduct the services.

Red Horde Swarms To Within 11 Miles Of Battered Seoul

TOKYO, Friday, April 27.—(P)—Red Chinese attack waves swept to within 11 miles of Seoul today but the allied field commander said they would be stopped north of the Han river.

The statement came from Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet on a surprise visit to the front.

The Reds have 400,000 men in the west menacing Seoul.

"I do," Van Fleet snapped in answer to a war correspondent's query on whether he believed his Eighth army could stop the Chinese and hold north of the Han.

The Han flows along the southern fringes of Seoul. While Van Fleet indicated he hoped to stop the Red rush short of Seoul, the statement did not necessarily mean the ruined old capital would be defended.

Seoul now is without military value. The months of Korean warfare have demonstrated that the city is almost impossible to defend.

The Reds in their drive southward fought into the outskirts of Uijongbu, 11 miles north of Seoul.

Withdrawal Still Orderly
They followed up a continuing, orderly allied withdrawal toward the line where United Nations forces hope to stand and hold.

The Red advance is being made at a tremendous cost in manpower. Communists killed by ground artillery and air action since Sunday were officially estimated at more than 30,000.

The allied line in the west stood just north of Uijongbu after the latest fall back to the approaches to Seoul. Chinese cavalry supported a Red infantry attack which was stopped by rearguards of the withdrawing allied column north-east of Uijongbu.

General Van Fleet said the permanent holding line had not yet been established and that the withdrawals continued in orderly fashion.

Van Fleet dropped in unannounced at a division command post Friday. After being briefed, he told frontline correspondents:

Units Remain Intact
"We are withdrawing in order. We are keeping units intact. We are taking a tremendous toll of the enemy while enduring minimum losses ourselves."

Field dispatches said the allied forces were putting up a strong fight just north of Uijongbu. On the central front U. N. forces abandoned the Hwachon reservoir and withdrew to the 38th parallel. Red pressure from a force of more than 100,000 was reported decreasing in the center.

On the east-central front allied forces beat back four night attacks. The big push was aimed toward Seoul from the north and northeast. The capital city itself, a mass of rubble from previous bombings, was written off as an item of any military value.

Magnolias Are In Full Bloom

The magnolia trees on West Third, near Liberty Park, are now in full bloom and are well worth seeing with their masses of large pink flowers.

The trees have been set out in the last several years by the Sedalia Garden clubs members who have as a project making a U-shaped drive of magnolia trees starting with the West Third boulevard, around State Fair boulevard and East on 16th to Barrett. Although trees have been placed on State Fair boulevard and 16th they are small but magnolia trees bloom from the time that they are tiny and increase in beauty each year.

Eckert Bests Roy Graham In Thriller

Big Ray Outrungs 'Cowboy'; Midgets Continue To Please

The three-week wait for a wrestling match paid "dividends" Saturday night when fans witnessed two events filled to the brim with action and fistcuffs thrills, when Ray Eckert, California, Mo., heavyweight favorite and Roy Graham, wrestling cowboy from Dallas, Texas, met to top-off the card. It cannot be said the "Little Men," the midgets in their team-event didn't provide that necessary excitement for the feature event — it was great.

Ray Eckert beat Graham after losing the first fall by taking the two final falls.

The Eckert-Graham match, or might it be said it was a "bout," kept a continuous scream in the large National Guard Armory hall. It wasn't hard to tell the fans had switched their feelings to Graham in preference to Eckert. Graham took the first fall of their match in 12 minutes and eight seconds, after a full period crammed full of everything from action to fist fighting style of the old days. He used a smother, after a series of neck twistings.

The second fall went to Eckert who after overcoming three twistings, came through to "slug" Graham in the mid-section, then body smother him for the fall in seven minutes and 26 seconds.

Eckert after nearly losing the final heat, came back to punch Graham in the mid-section a fist to the chin, and a series of rolling headlocks brought him the fall in four minutes and 35 seconds.

There was no dispute the midgets gave their usual good entertainment, and kept the fans yelling from the time the bell sounded beginning their team-match event, until the final fall was won. There is something about Little Beaver, the Canadian Indian, that wins the hearts of every angler. His ring knowledge and sportsmanship is something seldom seen in the wrestling ring. All four demonstrated real action.

Johnny Smith, Little Beaver's mate, came through after the four little men had battled for 18 minutes and 22 seconds to win. Johnny and Beaver changed places eight times, using the Boston crane on Tom Thumb until the latter gave up.

The second fall went to Poncho the Bull, who succeeded in pinning Little Beaver in 10 minutes and 27 seconds, after a rough time. The third fall Little Beaver reversed the decision by beating Poncho in 14 minutes and 16 seconds, after Beaver and Johnny had changed places to work-over the poor Bull.

Promoter Pearl Christy said Saturday night he is endeavoring to get contestants for a match within the next two weeks. He hopes to be able to sign two matches with the girl wrestlers for Sedalia at that time. An announcement as to the event will be made in the Democrat-Capital.

Pfc. Duren Trains At Little Creek

LITTLE CREEK, NORFOLK, Va.,—Marine Pfc. David G. Duren, nephew of Mrs. William Campbell, of 103 East Jackson, Sedalia, is advancing a course of instruction here in the Navy's foremost East Coast amphibious training base.

A member of the Second Marine Division, Duren will spend two weeks here as a student at the Marine Corps Atlantic Troop Training Unit's Basic Troop Amphibious school. This school, under the command of Brigadier General George E. Good, Jr., USMC, is designed to train troop elements in the principles of amphibious warfare, and to continue the basic training of the individual as a part of an amphibious team.

The course of instruction here includes dry net practice, boat drill, combat loading, wet net practice, naval customs and terminology, air support, naval gunfire, and allied subjects.

In addition to the classroom and field training which Duren will receive, he will participate in two large scale amphibious landings as a member of a landing team, in exercises designed to put into practice the "know-how" acquired during his previous training.

He is a veteran of three years of Marine Corps service and re-enlisted in October, 1950.

Price Control Office To Open

The government's price control office for Western Missouri will open Monday, April 23, 1951, in Kansas City at 220 Admiral boulevard in Kansas City, H. Roe Bartle, regional director of the Office of Price Stabilization, announced today. With eleven other district offices opening elsewhere, the Kansas City district office will bring to 89 the number of price offices in the nation and insular possessions.

The new office will serve the public in all matters pertaining to the price stabilization program in the western judicial district of Missouri; the eastern boundary includes the counties of Putnam, Sullivan, Grundy, Carroll, Livingston, Saline, Howard, Boone, Callaway, Osage, Miller, Pulaski, Texas, Howell and Oregon. All pricing charts, requests for regulations or other questions about prices should be directed to the new office, not to the regional office, which will remain at 112 West Ninth in Kansas City, Bartle added.

Stephen J. Millett, former acting regional enforcement director, has been appointed district director in charge of the new office. Although only a few have been hired for the district office staff, as many as are necessary to operate the office smoothly and efficiently will be on loan from the regional office until the permanent staffing process is completed.

Picturesque Medicine Shows Had 'Curable' Remedies

By the State Historical Society of Missouri at Columbia
Floyd C. Shoemaker, Secretary

Medicine show! The sound of the words was enough to set the pulse of any small town Missouri boy to pounding. During the last century, the arrival of a tent show with its troupe of banjo pickers, black-face minstrels, or magic acts was a big event in village life.

Itinerant vendors guaranteed their remedies to cure every disease under the sun. They traveled in groups varying in size from a couple of men to a band of artists whose skill would have done credit to vaudeville circuit. Some confined themselves to selling "Indian Remedies," or whatever their nostrum happened to be, but others claimed mystic, and even divine powers.

A typical medicine-man would hire a hall, or in good weather, a vacant lot, and proceed to give his show before demonstrating his remedy. Occasionally the audience took part. In such medicine-show songbooks of the nineteenth century, the words of the songs were "Indian Remedies," or whatever their nostrum happened to be, but others claimed mystic, and even divine powers.

The traveling quacks knew human nature thoroughly. They constantly alluded to the monopoly of the regular doctors who, they said, withheld secrets of medicine which could help the people.

Certified doctors were naturally offended at these innuendoes. A weekly to the editor of the Liberty Tribune from a Clay county physician in 1854 condemned medical quacks of all sorts, and especially "The vendors of 'Patent Medicines,'" the class "at the head of which stands the 'Indian Doctor,' in whom credulous females, children and ignorant, superstitious men, have great confidence."

Missouri tried to control the medicine showmen by means of license laws. The revised statutes of 1899 required "any itinerant vendor of any drug, nostrum, ointment . . . to pay a license fee of $100 per month or be fined and sentenced to the county jail. The 'patent' in the medicines sold by the pitchmen falsely suggested government sanction, even approval. Although possessed of a keen sense of the ridiculous, cure-all was worth a try even if the claims did sound exaggerated.

In 1895 the Neosho Times complained of a party of patent medicine vendors who appeared on the streets every day "to humbug the people and we regret to say they find a few who are willing to be humbugged."

Medicine show "doctors" still peddle their wares in scattered Missouri towns, but modern audiences are more critical of both performance and remedy.

B. Frank Rhodes Is Found Dead

B. Frank Rhodes, 66, 515 South Engineer, a retired Missouri Pacific employee, took his life Thursday afternoon shortly before 1:30 with a .32 caliber revolver, in a shed back of his home, according to acting coroner Dr. J. R. Rodeman.

Mr. Rhodes' housekeeper for 20 years, Mrs. Etta Huettner, was cleaning a clothes hamper in the home when, according to her statement, she heard a noise in the shed behind the house next to the alley. She sent her daughter, Mrs. Goldie Wooten, 610 West Sixth street, who was spending the day with her, to see what Mr. Rhodes was doing. Mrs. Wooten went to the door of the shed and called to him. When she received no answer she opened the door and found him on his back with the revolver beside him.

Police and Mr. Rhodes' physician, Dr. Joseph W. Maunders, called and then the Gillespie ambulance Dr. Maunders stated that Mr. Rhodes had been in poor health, but in good knowledge, had been to his knowledge, had been to his knowledge, had been to his knowledge.

Dr. Rodeman, who acted for the coroner Dr. C. Gordon Stauffer, attending a medical convention, stated an inquest was unnecessary.

Mr. Rhodes, until his retirement a year ago, was employed in the tool department at the Missouri Pacific shops. Since retirement he had worked as a wallpaper cleaner.

He is the son of the late David N. and Mary Jane Rhodes. He was married to Opal Sawyer at Green Ridge in 1902 to this union were born two children: Mrs. Dan McKenzie of Richland, Wash., and a son Donald of Warrensburg, who survive.

Surviving besides his children are two brothers David of Sterry, Okla., and Willis Rhodes of Windsor. His wife, one brother, and two sisters preceded him in death. Also one grandson and several nieces and nephews survive.

Mr. Rhodes was a member of the Fifth Street Methodist church.

The body is at the McLaughlin funeral chapel. Funeral arrangements have not been made pending the arrival of his daughter.

Experts For a Curb on Dope

Addiction Spreads To Young, Crime Body is Told

JEFFERSON CITY, April 26—(P)—Dope addiction is spreading among young people but the state cannot step in and do something about it, the Senate crime committee was told last night.

Two experts told the committee that controlling the narcotics traffic is primarily a federal job. But the state can do these things to plug loopholes not covered by the federal law.

1. Make dope addiction a minor crime so the addicts can be committed to state hospitals for treatment and cure. They would stay on probation until cured, which might take six months to a year. Some states already do this.

2. Set up a narcotics squad in the state highway patrol to help local officers.

3. Make theft of narcotics from a hospital, doctor's office or drug store a more serious crime.

T. J. Walker, district supervisor at Kansas City for the federal bureau of narcotics, told why enforcement is tough: Enough heroin to make 400 doses—more than $1,000 worth—can be hidden in a cigarette package.

He said federal agents can't control the addicts. They have to concentrate on the dealers who handle non-tax paid dope.

But catching and curing the addicts is important because "sooner or later all of them are forced into crime to get money to buy their drugs."

James W. Conner, director of the St. Louis crime commission, sounded the same warning. Since narcotics addiction "impoverishes and demoralizes the addict," he has to go out and steal to get the $15 a day he needs to buy his heroin.

"And there is a tremendous danger he will commit crimes of violence,"

Discussing gambling, Conner said he had a "strong suspicion" that gamblers and racketeers driven from East St. Louis were moving into Jefferson and St. Louis counties in Missouri.

Blue Given 90-Day Term For Larceny

Robert Blue was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail Thursday afternoon by Circuit court Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, after pleading guilty to state charges of petty larceny. He was represented by attorney, Chester Wolfe.

Blue, was charged jointly with Alvin Johnson for taking a case of whiskey from the Main Street Bar. Johnson's case was held earlier this month and he received a two-year term at the Missouri penitentiary.

Ally Khan Seems To Be Annoyed

CANNES, France, April 26—(P)—Ally Khan, seeming a bit annoyed, let it be known that if reporters are stalking about his Riviera chateau waiting for news of a divorce, they are wasting their time.

His notary, Pierre Denizot, repeated in Paris today what Ally said here yesterday: These rumors actress Rita Hayworth would divorce her price charming were just "ridiculous."

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

There seems to be only one hope that the Korean war will not drag on indefinitely, perhaps until it is enveloped and forgotten in World War III.

It is the hope that enough casualties can be inflicted on the Communists to impress the life-disregarding minds of Russia and Communist China with the futility of their effort to drive the allies from the peninsula. That apparently is why General Ridgway refers to the present battle as possibly decisive. If stopped cold, the Communists might be willing just to give up, as they did in Greece, or to negotiate a settlement.

President Truman was not specific yesterday in what he had to say about any extension of the war being up to the Communists. Presumably he was thinking about what might happen if the Reds resort to heavy aerial assault in support of their offensive.

In that case, the only counter-effort which could be truly effective would be allied attacks on the Manchurian air bases, and the war would be carried across the Chinese border for the first time.

Incidentally, there is still some confusion regarding the retaliation plans. The United States was represented Wednesday by a spokesman at the U. N. as having "proposed" such action, although not having entered into formal agreement with the other allies or receiving objections from them.

Apparently what actually happened is that the United States, to which the U. N. entrusted responsibility for conduct of the war, simply informed the other countries several months ago that retaliatory bombing would take place in event of heavy enemy aerial assaults. There was no request for formal agreement or disagreement. Since then MacArthur and now Ridgway have had the authority to proceed on that basis in event of need.

This plan for bombing the air bases has had nothing to do with MacArthur's contention for the general right to bomb the Manchurian rear of the Communist ground army. China operates from a sanctuary north of the Yalu river, and the allies operate from a sanctuary in Japan. If the allies adopted the principle of attacking the Chinese ground supply bases, then to follow the principle to its ultimate conclusion, they would also have to bomb Vladivostok, Russian port which is the very heart of the Communist supply system.

If retaliation against Communist air bases in Manchuria brought Russian personnel into the Korean war, as some fear, there would be an imminent possibility of direct war with Russia. If that occurred in the Far East the entire world situation would be changed. Where the Korean war now amounts to a diversion of allied strength which would be better deployed in Western Europe, Russian strength would also be diverted from Europe.

And all of the Kremlin's tactics indicate it doesn't want that. In the meantime, Mr. Gromyko in Paris follows the usual Communist practice of accusing others of doing what they themselves are doing. He shouts that continuation of the Korean war means terrific allied casualties, and adds that the only way to end the fighting is for the U. N. battalions to withdraw. The reverse of his first part of his statement is being inflicted on the Red armies at the moment. Only time will tell if the same proves to be true about withdrawal.

Italians Visit Senate

JEFFERSON CITY, April 26—(P)—Nine representatives of Italy's communication services visited the Missouri Senate today.

They are in this country as Marshall plan guests for a 60-day study of American communications.

The men said they represent the Italian government and all of the five operating telephone companies in Italy.

Officers Homan and Goode of the Sedalia Police department arrested B. R. Clark at 400 East Second, Thursday afternoon and took him to the police station where he was charged with stealing groceries and selling them to buy wine.

Money From Sky

SINGAPORE — (P) — It rains dollars in Malaya. Amateur pilots of the Royal Singapore Flying club have dropped payrolls worth more than $100,000 from their little single-engined Tiger Moth planes to rubber estates in South Johore.

Not a 10-cent piece bounced wide of the dropping zones since this method of "pay-off" started after a state of emergency was proclaimed in the war against Communist terrorists in Malaya on June 1, 1948.

Red Infiltrate Calcutta Dockworkers

NEW DELHI—(P)—Communist infiltration has been discovered in both the Calcutta Dock Workers Union and the Calcutta Seamen's Union, India's transport minister told a questioner in parliament here.

The labor groups are under socialist leadership at the present time. A third organization, the Calcutta Dockers Union, is affiliated with the government-sponsored Indian National Trade Union Congress.

Mobile Telephone Helps Hospitalized Vets

NEW YORK —(P)—The "telecart," a mobile telephone, now makes it possible for bedridden veterans, who could not otherwise make or receive calls, to keep in touch with the folks back home.

The new device, which resembles a teletype with a telephone on top, was developed by the New York Telephone Co., for use in veterans' hospitals. The machine, first tried out in 1945, was standardized in 1949.

When a bed-ridden patient wants to make or receive a call, the telecart is moved by a hospital attendant to his bedside and connected by a long cord to the nearest telephone outlet installed in the wall. The portable phone is equipped to hold an incoming call until the patient is ready to receive it.

Building Support For The Policies of Clement Attlee

By Dewitt MacKenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Britain's Prime Minister Attlee has spoken, at least temporarily, the guns of the left-wing rebellion in his Socialist party led by Aneurin Bevan against the national rearmament program as agreed to with Washington.

The Socialist high command—the national executive—yesterday overruled Bevan's objections and declared firm support for Mr. Attlee's policies.

A short time later Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison, speaking at a luncheon of the American Chamber of Commerce in London, pledged that Britain would cut its standard of living before slashing the rearmament program. This touched a high point of drama, since the nation for many years has been living under a program of fierce austerity.

This revolt of left winging under Bevan was—as explained in a previous column—really part and parcel of a campaign to swing the Socialist party as a whole further left. Bevan, powerful labor leader, resigned his important cabinet position as minister of labor in protest against the rearmament program.

Bevan and his followers charged that Britain couldn't rearm as quickly as America wanted her to. They contended also that U. S. A. was using so many raw materials for her own rearmament that Britain couldn't get what she needed to avoid economic chaos.

Grievance of Bevan

Bevan declared heatedly that this program was detrimental to the Socialist welfare state. One of his main grievances was that the government proposed to charge the public in part for false teeth and glasses, whereas these things have been free.

This money raising expedient was among the provisions of the new budget which is now before the House of Commons. Bevan made much of it in his sensational resignation, which was followed by that of Harold Wilson, president of the study are designed to
